Long Way From Home A:

A Long Way from Home Pat Sandiford Grygier, 1997-03-27 A comprehensive account of the tuberculosis epidemic among the Inuit in the mid part of the century The Inuit were victims not only of the epidemic but also of the Canadian government's shockingly slow response and lack of concern for their culture Grygier's focus is on patients' experiences and the programs set up to deal with the epidemic rather than on a purely medical discussion of the disease and treatment

Representing the Race Gene Andrew Jarrett, 2011 The political value of African American literature has long been a topic of great debate among American writers both black and white from Thomas Jefferson to Barack Obama In his compelling new book Representing the Race Gene Andrew Jarrett traces the genealogy of this topic in order to develop an innovative political history of African American literature Jarrett examines texts of every sort OCopamphlets autobiographies cultural criticism poems short stories and novels OCoto parse the myths of authenticity popular culture nationalism and militancy that have come to define African American political activism in recent decades He argues that unless we show the diverse and complex ways that African American literature has transformed society political myths will continue to limit our understanding of this intellectual tradition Cultural forums ranging from the printing press schools and conventions to parlors railroad cars and courtrooms provide the backdrop to this African American literary history while the foreground is replete with compelling stories from the debate over racial genius in early American history and the intellectual culture of racial politics after slavery to the tension between copyright law and free speech in contemporary African American culture to the political audacity of Barack Obama OCOs creative writing Erudite yet accessible Representing the Race is a bold explanation of what OCOs at stake in continuing to politicize African American literature in the new millennium
