Nation-building in the Post-Soviet Borderlands Graham Smith, 1998-09-10 This book examines how national and ethnic identities are being reforged in the post Soviet borderland states Nation-building in the Post-Soviet Borderlands, 1998 Everyday Belonging in the Post-Soviet Borderlands Alina Jašina-Schäfer, 2021-04-28 Everyday Belonging in the Post Soviet Borderlands examines the Russophone communities in peripheral cities adjacent to the Russian borders in Estonia and Kazakhstan The research adopts a cross disciplinary space sensitive approach that focuses comparatively on individual memories narratives and performances Based on ethnographic examples this book reconstructs belonging as a complex dialectical relationship between inclusion and exclusion This relationship it is argued manifests itself through a continuous spiral of boundary construction appropriation and transgression among different versions of Estonianness and Kazakhness Europeanness and Cosmopolitanness as well as Russianness Ideology and National Identity in Post-communist Foreign Policies Rick Fawn, 2003 This collection of essays examines the extent to which nationalism has replaced communist ideology in the foreign policy of communist states Culture and Power at the Edges of the State Thomas M. Wilson, Hastings Donnan, 2005 State borders are somewhere the state is keen to stress its presence and yet are simultaneously places where that presence is challenged They are sites of resistance to the state and at the same time places where the national interest is vigorously maintained This constant ambiguity generates questions about the dynamics of borderland state relations and about how what happens along the border can undermine state policies Using case studies of nation and state relations in borderlands in Europe this book seeks to understand how structures of power are created experienced changed and reproduced Russian Language Outside the Nation Lara Ryazanova-Clarke, 2014-03-17 This book explores a comprehensive set of tensions which emerged from the dislocated and deterritorialised position of Russian in the contemporary world from a sociolinguistic perspective Border Encounters Jutta Lauth Bacas, William Kavanagh, 2013-10-01 Among the tremendous changes affecting Europe in recent decades those concerning political frontiers have been some of the most significant International borders are being opened in some regions while being redefined or reinforced in others The social relationships of those living in these borderland regions are also changing fundamentally This volume investigates from a local ground up perspective what is happening at some of these border encounters face to face interactions and relations of compliance and confrontation where people are bargaining exchanging goods and information and maneuvering beyond state boundaries Anthropological case studies from a number of European borderlands shed light on the questions of how and to what extent the border context influences the changing interactions and social relationships between people at a political frontier Historical Dictionary of Belarus Grigory V. Ioffe, Vitali Silitski Jr., 2018-08-15 Belarus is one of fifteen successor states of the former Soviet Union It s the only post Soviet state that is in full of control of its territory and has no territorial conflicts with its neighbors It s squeezed between Russia and the European Union Belarus had never been an independent nation prior to the Soviet Union's disintegration and its identity is still evolving. Regime Transition in Central Asia Dagikhudo Dagiev, 2013-10-30. Presenting a study of regime transition, political transformation, and the challenges that faced the post-Communist republics of Central Asia on independence, this book focuses on the process of transition in Tajikistan and Uzbekistan and the obstacles that these newly independent states are facing in the post-Communist period. The book analyses how in the early stages of their independence, the governments of Central Asia declared that they would build democratic states, but that in practice they demonstrated that they are more inclined towards authoritarianism. With the declaration of independence, Tajikistan and Uzbekistan, like many other former Soviet national republics, were faced with the issues of nationalism, ethnicity, identity, and territorial delimitation. This book looks at how the discourse of patrimonial nationalism in post-Communist Tajikistan and Uzbekistan has been the elites' strategy to address all these issues to maintain the stateness of their respective countries, to preserve the unity of their nation, to fill the ideological void of post-Communism, to prevent the rise of Islam, and to legitimize their authoritarian practice. Arguing against the claim that the Central Asian states have undergone divergent paths of transition, the book discusses how they are in fact all authoritarian, although exhibiting different degrees of authoritarianism. This book provides a useful contribution to studies on Central Asian Politics and International Relations.

Defining the Nation? Katharina Nötzold, 2009-09-10. Katharina Nötzold explores whether and how mass media can contribute to nation building after civil war. Drawing on the example of Lebanon's audiovisual media organisations, which are mostly privately owned by politicians, she demonstrates how political elites use television to transmit their visions of post-war society. Lebanon's nation building process from 1990 to 2005 was characterized by Syrian dominance over political life. From an extensive content analysis of Lebanese news and interviews with analysts, journalists, and managers from all Lebanese TV stations, it emerges that political information on television focused more on divisive experiences than cohesive ones. This has underpinned continued sectarianism in Lebanon, in the media as in society at large, and has impeded nation building.
