Natural Disasters and Sustainable Development Riccardo Casale, Claudio Margottini, 2013-06-29 Natural disasters are a clear example of people living in conflict with the environment Disasters cause human social and environmental losses and sometimes even threaten geopolitical stability as in many less developed countries They are also a problem of global concern even when damage is local the mechanisms are often dependent on global meteorological climatic circulation Losses frequently affect several countries as could be seen in the floods in central Europe in 2002 It is obvious that there is a clear need for a new approach capable of incorporating the prevention of natural disasters whilst mitigating strategies within the cycle of sustainable development There are no thematic disciplines or political boundaries limiting initiatives the integration of data providers data users information providers and information users in a global and holistic manner is the desired outcome of the new frontier This book falls into this new category multidisciplinary interventions and socio economic point of views are the basic inputs for a changing science implementing sustainable development for the benefit of citizens and society It is comprised of studies and investigations which explain natural processes and modelling as well as assessing hazards and risks and is rounded off with suggestions for sustainable development Thus reflecting the best results of research on this topic funded by the European Commission
