Women writers are looking back to the classical past more than ever before, and there is serious public interest in women's reworkings of the ancient world. This first volume in a two-volume set explores the different ways that women have retold and responded to Classics across the ages as well as how these responses might resist or unpack the tensions inherent in notions of gender race canonicity class and cultural heritage in a context in which classical education and scholarship have been confined to the ivory tower studied by men in pursuit of an understanding of the great men of history Looking at extraordinary women writers across thousands of years from Sappho Marguerite de Navarre Lucrezia Marinella and Ren e Vivien to Tayari Jones Roz Kaveney Zadie Smith and Anne Carson from ancient Greece to the Venezuelan diaspora this volume demonstrates the urgency and the centrality of women s creations in the world of Classics
