Mexican Macaws Lyndon Lane Hargrave, 1970 The Anthropological Papers of the University of Arizona is a peer reviewed monograph series sponsored by the School of Anthropology Established in 1959 the series publishes archaeological and ethnographic papers that use contemporary method and theory to investigate problems of anthropological importance in the southwestern United States Mexico and related areas The American Southwest and Mesoamerica Jonathon E.

Ericson, Timothy G. Baugh, 2013-11-11 Regional approaches to the study of prehistoric exchange have generated much new knowledge about intergroup and regional interaction The American South west and Mesoamerica Systems of Prehistoric Exchange is the first of two volumes that seek to provide current information regarding regional exchange on a continental basis From a theoretical perspective these volumes provide important data for the comparative analysis of regional systems relative to sociopolitical organization from simple hunter gatherers to those of complex sociopolitical entities like the state Although individual regional exchange systems are unique for each region and time period general patterns emerge relative to sociopolitical organization Of significant interest to us are the dynamic processes of change stability rate of growth and collapse of regional exchange systems relative to sociopolitical complexity These volumes provide basic data to further our understanding of prehistoric exchange systems The volume presents our current state of knowledge about regional exchange systems in the American Southwest and Mesoamerica Each chapter synthesizes the research findings of a number of other researchers in order to provide a synchronic view of regional interaction for a specific chronological period A diachronic view is also provided for regional interaction in the context of the developments in regional sociopolitical organization Most authors go beyond description by proposing alternative models within which to understand regional interaction The book is organized by geographical and chronological divisions to provide units of the broader mosaic of prehistoric exchange systems Vertebrate Faunal Remains from Grasshopper Pueblo, Arizona John W.

Olsen, 1990-01-01 Grasshopper Pueblo is a large fourteenth century community in the forested Mogollon highlands of central Arizona This book is an examination of the entire suite of animal remains from the site Puebloan Ruins of the Southwest

Historic Native Peoples of Texas William C. Foster, 2009-02-17 An incredibly detailed account of Indigenous lifeways during the initial rounds of European exploration in south central North America Several hundred tribes of Native Americans were living within or hunting and trading across the present day borders of Texas when Cabeza de Vaca and his shipwrecked companions washed up on a Gulf Coast beach in 1528 Over the next two centuries as Spanish and French expeditions explored the state they recorded detailed information about the locations and lifeways of Texas s Native peoples Using recent translations of these expedition diaries and journals along with discoveries from ongoing archaeological investigations William C Foster here assembles the most complete account ever published of Texas s Native peoples during the early historic period AD 1528 to 1722 Foster describes the historic Native peoples of Texas by geographic regions His chronological narrative records the interactions of Native groups with European explorers and with Native trading partners across a wide network that extended into Louisiana the Great Plains New Mexico and northern Mexico Foster provides extensive ethnohistorical information about Texas s Native peoples as well as data on the various regions animals plants and climate Accompanying each regional account is an annotated list of named Indigenous tribes in that region and maps that show tribal territories and European expedition routes A very useful encyclopedic regional account of the Europeans and Native peoples of Texas who encountered one another during the relatively unexamined two hundred years before the Spanish occupation of Texas and the French establishment of Louisiana Southwestern Historical Quarterly Attorneys General of the United States, 1789-1985 ,1985 The Architecture and Material Culture of 29SJ1360, Chaco Canyon, New Mexico Peter J. McKenna,1985 Mimbres Society Valli S. Powell-Marti,Patricia A. Gilman,2019-11-01 The enchanting pottery created by the Mimbres people of southwestern New Mexico is considered by many scholars to be unique among all the ancient art traditions of North America Distinguished by their elaborate hand painted black on white designs Mimbres vessels have inspired artists and collectors and many insist that they are unrivaled in several millennia of pottery making While the attention to the extraordinary Mimbres painted pottery is well merited the focus on its artistry alone has obscured other equally remarkable achievements and compelling questions about this unique and sophisticated society Was the society as truly egalitarian as it has often been suggested Was the pottery produced by specialists How did Mimbres architecture among the first to break living spaces into apartment style room blocks reflect the relationships among individuals families and communities Did aggregate housing units translate into social equality or did subtle hierarchies exist Tracing the way technology evolved in ceramic decoration architecture and mortuary practices this collection of eight original contributions brings new insights into previously unexplored dimensions of Mimbres society The contributors also provide vivid examples of how today s archaeologists are linking field data to social theory Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones April M. Beisaw,2013-11-21 Offering a field tested analytic method for identifying faunal remains along with helpful references images and examples of the most commonly encountered North American species Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones A Manual provides an important new reference for students avocational archaeologists and even naturalists and wildlife enthusiasts Using the basic principles outlined here the bones of any vertebrate animal including humans can be identified and their relevance to common research questions can be better understood Because the interpretation of archaeological sites depends heavily on the analysis of surrounding materials soils artifacts and floral and faunal remains it is important that non human remains be correctly distinguished from human bones that distinctions between domesticated and wild or feral animals be made correctly and that evidence of the reasons for faunal remains in the site be recognized But the ability to identify and analyze animal bones is a skill that is not easy to learn from a traditional textbook In Identifying and Interpreting Animal Bones veteran archaeologist and educator April Beisaw guides readers through the stages of identification and analysis with sample images and data also illustrating how specialists make analytical decisions that allow for the identification of the smallest fragments of bone Extensive additional illustrative material from the author s own collected assemblages and from those in the Archaeological Analytical Research Facility at Binghamton University in New York are also available in the book s online supplement There readers can view and interact with images to further understanding of the principles explained in the text

Social Adaptation to Food Stress Paul E. Minnis, 1985-04 Combining anthropology archeology and evolutionary theory Paul E Minnis develops a model of how tribal societies deal with severe food shortages While focusing on the prehistory of the Rio Mimbres region of New Mexico he provides comparative data from the Fringe Enga of New Guinea the Tikopia of Tikopia Island and the Gwembe Tonga of South Africa Minnis proposes that faced with the threat of food shortages nonstratified societies survive by employing a series of responses that are increasingly effective but also are increasingly costly and demand increasingly larger cooperative efforts The model Minnis develops allows him to infer from evidence of such factors as population size resource productivity and climate change the occurrence of food crises in the past Using the Classic Mimbres society as a test case he summarizes the regional archeological sequence and analyzes the effects of environmental fluctuations on economic and social organization He concludes that the responses of the Mimbres people to their burgeoning population were inadequate to prevent the collapse of the society in the late twelfth century In its illumination of the general issue of responses to food shortages Social Adaptation to Food Stress will interest not only archeologists but also those concerned with current food shortages in the Third World Cultural ecologists and human geographers will be able to derive a wealth of ideas methods and data from Minnis s work

Grayson, 2013-09-24 Volcanic Activity and Human Ecology deals with dating chronology stratigraphy volcanic activity and with the impacts of volcanism on animals plants human populations and the environment Some of the chapters explain how such findings must be weighed against other causes that influence human behavior and survival such as factors of social customs climatic change shifting biogeographic patterns disease and the ability to adapt Each of the chapters that assess the possible human response to volcanism does so by searching for multiple explanations of the archaeological record avoiding the simple argument that people were dramatically and inevitably overcome by catastrophic geologic events The book begins with discussions of volcanism as seen by geologists and pedologists These include s a general overview of volcanoes and volcanism a review of the production dispersal and properties of tephra and of the geologic methods used to study tephra and the nature of volcanic soils and their economic impact Subsequent chapters use the geologic and modern records to examine volcanoes as hazards to people The final series of papers deals with the interrelationships between volcanism and human occupations as seen through the archaeological paleobotanical and paleozoological records
