Michael Landy:

Michael Landy Michael Landy, Judith Nesbitt, John Slyce, 2004-12 Marking the return of the artist to the large scale installation expression this book highlights the work to date of Michael Landy It includes working drawings installation shots and contextual texts to give an insight into the work of the artist Michael Landy H2NY Michael Landy, 2007 This work include an essay by Barry Schwabsky and text by Calvin Tomkins On 17 March 1960 Jean Tinguely staged his infamous sculpture performance Homage to New York in the garden of the Museum of Modern Art The piece destroyed itself in only 27 minutes a source of lifetime fascination and inspiration for British artist Michael Landy Best known for his 2001 Break Down project during which he destroyed the totality of his possessions in an Oxford Street store in London Landy has decided to pay his own homage to Tinguely's piece This book reproduces 40 of Landy's studies on paper for the re enactment of the performance The drawings are inspired by the photographs films and remains of Homage to New York in a wide variety of sizes and media Michael Landy Michael Landy, 2010 Iconoclasm and the Museum Stacy Boldrick, 2020-09-24 Iconoclasm and the Museum addresses the museum's historic tendency to be silent about destruction through an exploration of institutional attitudes to iconoclasm or image breaking and the concept's place in public display Presenting a selection of focused case studies Boldrick examines long standing desires to deface dismantle obscure or destroy works of art and historic artefacts as well as motivations to protect and display broken objects Considering the effects of iconoclastic practices on artworks and cultural artefacts and how those practices are addressed in institutions the book examines changing attitudes to the intentional destruction of powerful artworks in the past and present It ends with an analysis of creative destruction in contemporary art making and proposes that we are entering a new phase for museums in which they acknowledge the critical roles destruction and loss play in the lives of objects and in contemporary political life Iconoclasm and the Museum will be important reading for academics and students in fields such as museum and gallery studies archaeology art history arts management curatorial studies cultural studies history heritage and religious studies The book should also be of great interest to museum professionals curators and collections management specialists and artists

Michael Landy Michael Landy, 2008 Everything Must Go is the first major monograph of Michael Landy's work spanning 20 years of his career Richly illustrated in full colour this book surveys his earliest work including lesser known sculptures such as Sovereign shown at Freeze in 1988 to large scale installations Market at Building One in London Closing Down Sale at Karsten Schubert Ltd and Scrapheap Services first shown as part of the exhibition Brilliant New Art from London in Minneapolis Other works discussed in detail include the infamous Break Down where Landy destroyed all 7 227 of his possessions in a department store on Oxford Street Semi detached at Tate Britain where Landy constructed a full scale model of his family home and the project H2NY where Landy made 168 drawings based on a Tinguely sculpture and performance Homage to New York With over 800 colour images this 432 page book features essays by Richard Flood Rochelle Steiner and

Richard Shone and an interview with James Lingwood Michael Landy Michael Landy, 1990 Home Alison Blunt, Robyn Dowling, 2022-05-30

Home articulates a critical geography of home in which home is understood as an emotive place and spatial imaginary that encompasses lived experiences of everyday domestic life alongside a wider and often contested sense of being and belonging in the world. Engaging with the burgeoning cross disciplinary interest in home since the first edition was published, this significantly revised and updated second edition contains new research boxes, illustrations and contemporary examples throughout. It also adds a new chapter on Home and the City that extends the scalar understanding of home to the urban. The book develops the conceptual and methodological underpinnings of a critical geography of home drawing on key feminist postcolonial and housing thinkers as well as contemporary methodological currents in non-representational thinking and performance. The book's chapters consider the making and unmaking of home across the domestic scale, house as home, the urban city as home, national nation as home and homemaking in relation to transnational migration and diaspora. Each chapter includes illustrative examples from diverse geographical contexts and historical time periods. Chapters also address some of the key cross-cutting dimensions of home across these scales including digital connectivity, art and performance, more than human constructions of home and violence and dispossession. The book ends with a research agenda for home in a world of COVID-19. The book provides an understanding of home that has three intersecting dimensions: that material and imaginative geographies of home are closely intertwined; that home, power and identity are intimately linked; and that geographies of home are multi-scalar. This framework, the examples used to illustrate it and the intended audience of academics and students across the humanities and social sciences will together shape the field of home studies into the future.

Art and the Home Imogen Racz, 2015-01-26 Our homes contain us but they are also within us. They can represent places to be ourselves, to recollect childhood memories or to withdraw into adult spaces of intimacy; they can be sites for developing rituals, family relationships and acting out cultural expectations. Like the personal, social and cultural elements out of which they are constructed, homes can be not only comforting but threatening too. The home is a rich theme running through post-war western art and it continues to engage contemporary artists today yet it has been the subject of relatively little critical writing. Art and the Home: Comfort, Alienation and the Everyday is the first single-authored up-to-date book on the subject. Imogen Racz provides a theme-led discussion about how the physical experience of the dwelling space and the psychological complexities of the domestic are manifested in art, focusing mainly on sculpture, installation and object-based practice, discussing the work and ideas of artists as diverse as Louise Bourgeois, Gordon Matta-Clark, George Segal and Cornelia Parker within their artistic and cultural contexts.

Dot Dot Dot 7 Stuart Bailey, Peter Bilak, 2004-02-25 Dot Dot Dot is not your father's design magazine, a high-gloss tombstone with decontextualized overproduced work by the usual suspects. Instead, what you'll find is a groundbreaking journal that fills a longstanding gap in graphic arts publishing, a venue for creative interdisciplinary journalism on subjects that affect the way we think about and make design We re proud to add it to our growing catalog of books and journals For each issue Dot Dot Dot invites a multidisciplinary group of contributors to both write and design pieces about the past present and future of visual culture Smart passionate and imaginatively designed Dot Dot Dot is for graphic designers and anyone interested in the creative practice of the visual arts Issue 7 includes The Problem with Posters by Rob Giampietro Mexico 1968 Rotterdam 2003 by Peter Bilak Landy s Failed Gesture and the General Intellect by J J King The Every Day Story of Flesh Eating Blood Sucking Freaks by Steve Rushton with John Russell Eno and the Long Now by Michael Bracewell with Brian Eno and Lucy McKenzie and Writing on Money by Paul Elliman among others History of Westchester County, New York Alvah P. Michael Landy Michael Landy,Thomas Dane Gallery,2018 The Efficacy of Intimacy and Belief in Worldmaking Practices Urmila Mohan,2023-11-17 This book explores efficacious intimacy as an embodied concept of worldmaking and a framework for studying belief practices in religious and political domains The study of how beliefs make and manifest power through their sociality and materiality can reveal who or what is considered effective in a particular socio cultural context The chapters feature case studies drawn from diverse religious and political contexts in Asia Africa and the Americas and explore practices ranging from ingesting sacred water to resisting injustice In doing so the authors analyze emotions and affects and how they influence dynamics of proximity and distance Taking an innovative approach to the topic of intimacy the book offers a fascinating examination of how life worlds are constructed by material practices It will be of interest to scholars of anthropology religion and material culture An Introductory Guide to EC Competition Law and Practice Valentine Korah,1994 The Idea of Waste John Scanlan,2025-03-15 A compelling rumination on detritus as an essential meaningful yet often problematic facet of human existence This book starts with the premise that waste is inevitable in human society and ends with a meditation on its inevitability The Idea of Waste explores how we have grappled with both the material reality and the specter of this shapeshifting phenomenon throughout history utilizing it dreaming of overcoming it yet never escaping it John Scanlan explores what waste is and why it seems to be intrinsic to human life at every turn in every age and epoch Finally he demonstrates how waste never disappears but rather only proliferates anew Scanlan s compelling narrative shows waste to be both an enduring material consequence of human activity and an idea or state of being Supreme Court , Hyperthematics Marc M. Anderson,2019-06-14 In this innovative work Marc M Anderson presents an account of value and value creation which both defines value and introduces a method to manipulate value practically Using this new methodology Anderson first explores where value lies in experience both human and otherwise uncovering tendencies in human action and the natural world that create and destroy value From that analysis he generates practical principles to be applied in creating value in any region or discipline of human experience at any scale including corporate organization and product design economics the sciences the arts urban and architectural design and sustainable development He tests this methodology by focusing on the organization and production of commercial corporations in particular suggesting ways to rethink and transform organization product creation and the contemporary currency system He considers the implications for the many intersections of corporate production with human life from urban planning medicine and food production to pornography weaponry and environmental engagement with corresponding suggestions for transformation toward value Throughout Hyperthematics examines complexity the nature of objects the inevitable future intermingling of science and ethics and assumptions driving the contemporary culture wars

The Fifth Wall Rachel Nagelberg, 2017-05-15 Art grief and technology churn in this excellent and raw novel about a conceptual artist's recovery from witnessing her mother's suicide Publishers Weekly In this debut novel conceptual artist Sheila B Ackerman heeds a mysterious urge to return to her estranged family home and arrives at the exact moment of her mother's suicide In an attempt to cope with and understand her own self-destructive tendencies Sheila plants a camera on the lawn outside the house to film 24/7 while workers deconstruct the physical object that encases so many of her memories Meanwhile as she begins to experience frequent blackouts she finds herself hunting a robot drone through the San Francisco MOMA with a baseball bat part of a provocative technological show The Last Art and resuming a violent affair with her college professor With a backdrop of post 9/11 San Francisco Sheila navigates the social media obsessed draught-ridden landscape of her life exploring the frail line between the human impulse to control everything that takes place around us and the futility of excessive effort to do so Combining the emotional depth of Eileen Myles with a plot worthy of a David Lynch film this readable literary and thought-provoking work is for anyone who questions the status quo Praise for The Fifth Wall Through her vivid depiction of Sheila's emotional tailspin Nagelberg's novel profoundly explores the way we live with technology and how it informs our understanding of reality Publishers Weekly A close artistic cousin to Joni Murphy's Double Teenage and Natasha Stagg's Surveys Nagelberg's engrossing narration is littered with stunning perception We look into the distance to be able to see what's right in front of us She writes without affect and with unselfconscious acuity That is she writes really well Chris Kraus author of Where Art Belongs

Contemporary British Art Grant Pooke, 2012-11-12 The last few decades have been among the most dynamic within recent British cultural history Artists across all genres and media have developed and re-fashioned their practice against a radically changing social and cultural landscape both national and global This book takes a fresh look at some of the themes ideas and directions which have informed British art since the later 1980s through to the first decade of the new millennium In addition to discussing some iconic images and examples it also looks more broadly at the contexts in which a new post-conceptual generation of artists those typically born since the late 1950s and 1960s have approached and developed aspects of their professional practice Contemporary British Art is an ideal introduction to the field To guide the reader the book is organised around genres or related practices painting sculpture and installation and film video and performance The first chapter explores aspects of the contemporary art market and some of the contexts within which art is made supported and exhibited The chapters that discuss various genres of art practice also mention books that may be useful to support further reading Extensively illustrated with a wide range of work both known and less well known from artists such as Chris Ofili Rachel Whiteread Damien Hirst Banksy Anthony Gormley Jack Vettriano Sam Taylor Wood Steve McQueen and Tracey Emin and many more

Embracing the Beat of Phrase: An Psychological Symphony within Michael Landy
