Michel de Certeau Or Union in Difference George B. York, II George B. York, 2009 In his book L'union dans la différence the French Jesuit historian Michel de Certeau 1921-1986 wrote When we confess our incapacity to know others we confess simultaneously their existence our own to which we are returned and a fundamental reciprocity between them and us To the extent we agree not to identify ourselves with anything they can expect from us and not to identify them with satisfactions or assurances we hope to take from them we discover the sense of the poverty which funds all communication This poverty signifies in effect both the desire which unites us to others and the difference which separates us from them The same is the structure of faith in God An elegant statement which opens for its reader a way to understanding how like a relation of trust in any other Christian Faith in the Other God begins and ends with the unknown Humans are incapable of fully grasping others either with their minds or their wills the same is true of the relation of Faith in the Other Given humans are ever different from but desirous of union with others the everyday ideal of all communication in trust is an attitude which has as its goal neither control nor change of the other but rather union in difference also therefore the everyday ideal in Faith George B York II holds an MA from St Louis University an M Th from the Jesuit School of Theology Berkeley and is currently completing a Ph D at the Gregorian University Rome He lives in Denver Colorado where over fifty years ago he was introduced to the Jesuits who became his way to meeting his mentor Michel de Certeau
