Models Of Man:

Models of Man J.J. Dagenais, 2012-12-06 This essay is first a theoretical and historical study of some classical scientific ways of studying human being in the world The more readily accessible and more commonly discussed models of being human were chosen for review here but structuralism is included because I believe it will have the same impact in America as it has had in France and I hope that American readers might be forewarned about what may be ideologically at stake before the technical and fruitful aspects of the movement become an academic fad in the United States The subjects included are mainline experimental psychology from Wundt to Skinner with its relatively shortlived functionalist and Watsonian behaviorist formulations holistic psychology from Brentano through Stumpf Husserl and Goldstein to Maslow Rogers and contemporary third force psychology and the psychoanalytic model for which the only paradigm is Freud himself Preeminence is given to psychological paradigms since their subject matter lies closest to the classical philosophical tradition from which philosophical anthropology emerged This book is in the final analysis a prolegomenon to an articulated philosophical anthropology Sociological models are also considered the classical tradition from Comte to the present and Marxist anthropology from the manuscripts of 1844 to the present The structuralist model from Durkheim to Chomsky is also considered since it cuts across and gives new dimensions to all the foregoing models The essay is second a phenomenological critique of these historico theoretical considerations Models of Man, 1964 Models of Man Herbert Alexander Simon, 1957 EPA-600/9, 1981-03 Organisational Behaviour R.J. Reddy, 2004 The World in the Model Mary S. Morgan, 2012-09-17 During the last two centuries the way economic science is done has changed radically it has become a social science based on mathematical models in place of words This book describes and analyses that change both historically and philosophically using a series of case studies to illuminate the nature and the implications of these changes It is not a technical book it is written for the intelligent person who wants to understand how economics works from the inside out This book will be of interest to economists and science studies scholars historians sociologists and philosophers of science But it also aims at a wider readership in the public intellectual sphere building on the current interest in all things economic and on the recent failure of the so called economic model which has shaped our beliefs and the world we live in
