Drawing on Architecture Jordan Kauffman,2019-03-19 How architectural drawings emerged as aesthetic objects promoted by a network of galleries collectors and institutions and how this changed the understanding of architecture Prior to the 1970s buildings were commonly understood to be the goal of architectural practice architectural drawings were seen simply as a means to an end But just as the boundaries of architecture itself were shifting at the end of the twentieth century the perception of architectural drawings was also shifting they began to be seen as autonomous objects outside the process of building In

Drawing on Architecture Jordan Kauffman offers an account of how architectural drawings promoted by a network of galleries and collectors exhibitions and events emerged as aesthetic objects and ultimately attained status as important cultural and historical artifacts and how this was both emblematic of changes in architecture and a catalyst for these changes Kauffman traces moments of critical importance to the evolution of the perception of architectural drawings beginning with exhibitions that featured architectural drawings displayed in ways that did not elucidate buildings but treated them as meaningful objects in their own right When architectural drawings were seen as having intrinsic value they became collectible and Kauffman chronicles early collectors galleries and sales He discusses three key exhibitions at the Leo Castelli Gallery in New York other galleries around the world that specialized in architectural drawings the founding of architecture museums that understood and collected drawings as important cultural and historical artifacts and the effect of the new significance of architectural drawings on architecture and architectural history Drawing on interviews with more than forty people directly involved with the events described and on extensive archival research Kauffman shows how architectural drawings became the driving force in architectural debate in an era of change The Brilliance of Swedish Glass, 1918-1939 Anne-Marie Ericsson, 1996-01-01 Udgivet i forbindelse med udstilling p Bard Graduate Center for Studies in the Decorative Arts fra 21 november 1996 2 marts 1997 Heritage Architecture Studies V. Swedish Design Keith M. Murphy, 2019-06-22 Swedish designers are noted for producing distinctive and elegant forms their furniture and household goods have an especially loyal following around the world Design in Sweden has more than just an aesthetic component however Since at least the late nineteenth century Swedish politicians and social planners have viewed design as a means for advocating and enacting social change and pushing for a more egalitarian social organization In this book Keith M Murphy examines the special relationship between politics and design in Sweden revealing in particular the cultural meanings this relationship holds for Swedish society Over the course of fourteen months of research in Stockholm and at other sites Murphy conducted in depth interviews with various players involved in the Swedish design industry designers design instructors government officials artists and curators and observed several different design collectives in action He found that for Swedes design is never socially or politically neutral Even for common objects like furniture and other household goods design can be labeled responsible democratic or ethical descriptors that all neatly resonate with the traditional moral tones of Swedish social democracy Murphy also considers the example of Ikea and its power to politicize perceptions of the everyday world More broadly his book serves as a model for an anthropological approach to the study of design practice one that accounts for the various ways in which order is purposefully and meaningfully imposed by designers on the domains of human life and the consequences those impositions have on the social worlds in which they are embedded

The volume addresses the hybridisation of knowledge production in space related research In contrast with interdisciplinary knowledge which is primarily located in scholarly environments transdisciplinary knowledge production entails a fusion of academic and non academic knowledge theory and practice discipline and profession Architecture and urbanism operating as both a discipline and a profession seems to form a particularly receptive ground for transdisciplinary research However this specificity has not yet been developed into a full fledged unique mode of knowledge production In order to dedicate specific attention to transdisciplinary knowledge production this book aims to explore new hybrid modes of inquiry that allow many of architecture s longstanding schisms to be overcome such as between theory history and practice critical theory and projective design the adoption of an external viewpoint and a view from within often under the guise of bottom up vs top down It therefore offers the reader a mix of contributions that elaborate on knowledge production that is situated in the architectural and urban profession or practice and on practice based approaches in theory
