Project Procurement for Infrastructure Construction Satyanarayana N. Kaladindi, 2004 This book will be of interest to a wide audience including professionals and academics working in the area of infrastructure construction procurement and management

BOOK JACKET Building Procurement Roy Morledge, Adrian J. Smith, Samuel Y.

Appiah, 2021-04-12 As an industrial process construction is unique The procurement processes used to achieve the successful completion of built assets requires a different approach to that adopted in most other industries due to the design of buildings being bespoke and the sites being geographically varied The procurement process is central to the success of any construction project and many of the problems which impact construction projects can be traced back to the procurement phase so a good understanding of the methods of procurement the development of a procurement strategy and the influence it has on project success is essential for all those working in the industry Much has changed in the global construction industry since publication of the second edition of Building Procurement for example the increase in debt burden of many major economies widespread adoption of Building Information Modelling BIM Technology in the industry and the United Kingdom's exit from the European Union This new edition has been rewritten to take account of these significant developments but at its core it continues to provide a critical examination and review of current procurement practices in the UK continental Europe including EU procurement procedures China Middle East and Sub Saharan Africa and the USA It retains its original strong emphasis on the need for clients to establish achievable objectives which reflect the project business case and focuses on development of suitable strategies and management structures to meet those objectives in the current construction climate Building Procurement will be essential reading for senior undergraduate and postgraduate students of construction management and practitioners working in all areas of construction management

Understanding the Construction Client David Boyd, Ezekiel Chinyio, 2008-04-15 This book breaks new ground by creating a framework to understand clients actions and needs Most construction management books focus on improving the construction process this one focuses on a better engagement with the client It challenges conceptions of both the construction industry and clients businesses so that a more effective process and greater client satisfaction can be achieved The book suggests that buildings are not about building but about changing and developing the client The technical organisational and psychological aspects of this are described and analysed in detail so that current experience can be explained and better practice determined The book offers well researched information about clients in a number of sectors developers supermarkets NHS government airports and housing associations which will help you understand what these client's business or service needs are and how construction fits into this It demonstrates how to develop an appreciation of the client's perspective with a toolkit for ensuring successful client engagement This makes Understanding the Construction Client a user friendly and practical guide as well as significant text for academia

Occupational Health and Safety in Construction Project Management Helen Lingard, 2005 This book addresses an increasingly important area in the construction industry Case studies are used extensively to illustrate important points and refer to current successful safety management techniques Built Environment and Property Management Emerald Group Publishing Limited, 2015-11-03 Built Environment and Property Management A Focus on China and Hong Kong is a unique collection of previously published articles that identify themes that have established themselves as key trends in the field These include the following Public private partnerships China's property boom and the resulting increase in prices Understanding Organisational Culture in the Construction Industry Vaughan Coffey, 2010-01-28 Since the early 1980s researchers and practitioners in the organisational and management fields have presumed a link between organisational or corporate culture and organisational performance Whilst many believe this exists other authors have been critical of the validity of such studies Part of this doubt stems from a reliance on measures of organisational performance that are based purely on financial measures of business growth Using the construction industry as the subject of his research Vaughan Coffey traces the development of the literature on organisational culture and business effectiveness and investigates the culture performance link using a new and highly objective measure of company performance and an evaluation of organisational culture which is largely behaviourally based. Providing a theoretical contribution to the field, this work shows that various cultural traits appear to be closely linked to objectively measured organisational effectiveness. This book will be valuable to professionals and researchers in the fields of management and public policy. It indicates directions for construction companies to develop and change and in doing so strengthen their chances of remaining strong when opportunities for work might deplete and only the most successful companies will be able to survive. Profitable Partnering in Construction Procurement Stephen Ogunlana, 2003-09-02

This collection of papers was presented at the CIB W92 Conference Harmony and Profit in Construction Procurement in Chiang Mai, Thailand, Jan 1999, by leading experts in construction contract procurement from 22 countries. Supply Chain Integration in the Building Industry Ruben Vrijhoef, 2011. Originally presented as the author's doctoral dissertation at Technische Universiteit Delft on November 25, 2011. Construction Supply Chain Economics Kerry London, 2007-12-11. This is the first comprehensive investigation of the industrial sourcing and procurement practices throughout sixty-eight construction industry supply channels across seven major commodity sectors at all levels. London presents real-world case studies to combine theory and practice to describe the economic structural and behavioural characteristics of sectors integral to the construction industry performance. Construction Supply Chain Economics details everyday experiences and procurement decisions made by people in firms in the industry related to projects as they seek out other firms to work with during the tendering stage. London creates a language that enables us to classify and understand behaviour and recognise the impact of our decisions on firms and projects within the industry. Construction Supply Chain Economics introduces a new model for mapping the construction sector of particular interest to construction management and economic researchers and to procurement decision makers including policymakers and clients as well as industry practitioners such as contractors, consultants and materials suppliers. Measures of Sustainable Construction Projects Performance Ayodeji E.

Oke, 2022-10-19. Measures of Sustainable Construction Projects Performance builds on years of knowledge and research providing a comprehensive discussion on various metrics and variables for measuring the success and performance of sustainable construction projects. Trust in Co-operative Contracting in Construction Sai On CHEUNG, 2007-06-01. This volume identifies the most critical driver for co-operative behavior: Trust. Its legal and behavioral implications will be carefully examined. Furthermore, a case study on the Mass Transit Railway Tseung Kwan O extension will help illustrate both theory and practice in perspective. This book provides a comprehensive discussion on trust in co-operative contracting. Directed from both management and legal perspectives with findings supported by empirical researches, it is hoped that professionals, researchers and students will find the book interesting. Published by City University of Hong Kong Press.

Managing Innovation in Construction Martyn Jones, Mohammed Saad, Advances in Building Technology M.

Anson, J.M. Ko, E.S.S. Lam, 2002-11-14 This set of proceedings is based on the International Conference on Advances in Building Technology in Hong Kong on 4-6 December 2002. The two volumes of proceedings contain 9 invited keynote papers, 72 papers delivered by 11 teams and 133 contributed papers from over 20 countries around the world. The papers cover a wide spectrum of topics across the three technology sub-themes of structures and construction environment and information technology. The variety within these categories spans a width of topics and these proceedings provide readers with a good general overview of recent advances in building research. Collaborative Relationships in Construction Hedley Smyth, Stephen Pryke, 2009-01-28 The book collects the latest research on both contractual and conceptual collaborative practices in construction. It identifies common problems faced by the industry and draws out practical implications. Construction projects are increasingly run in ways that undermine the traditional boundary of the firm and sometimes also the definition of the project coalition. This poses challenges for construction firms whose clients demand ever increasing performance improvements as well as those firms who want to improve their strategies for greater collaboration to give themselves competitive advantage. The editors identify three main themes: collaborative relationships operating both in frameworks and within networks of contacts; e.g. relational contracting in partnering, supply chain management and other procurement driven initiatives. The second theme is frameworks both contractual frameworks binding parties together over a series of contracts and conceptual frameworks used to develop future performance improvement arising from the proactive strategies of firms. The third theme is the network of relationships that supports individuals and firms within the project coalition in delivering services and adding value to improve performance. These networks define the investment and incentives supporting the inter-firm and intra-firm relationships as well as the formal contractual conditions through which such incentives flow. Networks of information exchange define the structure of the activity and help predict organisational configurations for successful project outcomes. Spon's Construction Resource Handbook Bryan Spain, 2002-11-01 Spon's Construction Resource Handbook is the first book to present critical information about materials, labour and plant constants required for the estimating process under one cover. It covers all areas of the construction industry and will provide all those involved in the preparation of tenders, cost estimates and first stage estimates with the Commercial Management of Projects David Lowe, Roine Leiringer, 2008-04-15 This is the first book to establish a theoretical framework for commercial management. It argues that managing the contractual and commercial issues of projects from project inception to completion is vital in linking operations at the project level and the multiple projects portfolios programmes level to the corporate core of a company. The book focuses on commercial management within the context of project oriented organisations, for example aerospace construction, IT, pharmaceutical and telecommunications in the private and public sectors. By bringing together contributions from leading researchers and practitioners in commercial management, it presents the state of the art in commercial management covering both current research and best practice. Commercial Management of Projects defining the discipline covers the external milieu competition culture procurement systems the corporate milieu corporate governance strategy marketing trust outsourcing the projects milieu management of uncertainty conflict management and dispute resolution performance measurement value management and the project milieu project governance contract management bidding purchasing logistics and supply cost value reconciliation Collectively the chapters constitute a step towards the creation of a body of knowledge and a research agenda for commercial management
