Professional Collaboration With Parents Of Children With Disabilities:

Professional Collaboration with Parents of Children with Disabilities Louise Porter, Susan McKenzie, 2000 This text describes experiences of families who have a child with a disability It takes a new look at old assumptions that disability necessarily has a negative effect on families or that families themselves are in need of therapy simply by virtue of having a child with additional needs

Professional Collaboration with Parents of Children with Disabilities Louise Porter, Susan McKenzie, 2000-10-23 The work of professionals with children with disabilities affects the children's family while events at home affect what professionals can achieve with the children This text describes how professionals can form collaborative relationships with the parents of the children in their care to optimise the children's development and to enable both family members and professionals to work in the children's interests It describes experiences of families who have a child with a disability and takes a new look at old assumptions that disability necessarily has a negative effect on families or that families themselves are in need of therapy simply by virtue of having a child with additional needs This text offers practical insights and guidelines for action by teachers occupational therapists physiotherapists speech pathologists and psychologists It is a practical text that enables practitioners to offer a high quality service to children while supporting the family in its role of nurturing their child with special needs

The Art of Collaboration Katharine G. Shepherd, Kervick Colby T., Djenne-amal N. Morris, 2016-12-27 The Art of Collaboration Lessons from Families of Children with Disabilities co-authored by two professors of education and a parent of a child with disabilities draws on the literature as well as original research to explore the meaning of collaboration and the benefits and barriers to developing positive school and family partnerships The voices and stories of families of children with a variety of disabilities and experiences are at the heart of the book providing insights into how we might reconceptualize collaboration as an ongoing process and an art built on a shared commitment to improving the lives of children and families The book begins with an overview of the research on collaboration and explores key themes including the process of identifying a disability the meaning of parent knowledge and expertise in the digital age the potential to join parent and professional knowledge for the benefit of the child and family and approaches leading to meaningful collaboration and communication These include a variety of family centered tools and practices strategies for promoting parent advocacy and leadership and a focus on hope and resiliency Each chapter concludes with questions for reflection and suggested activities making it an ideal resource for both parents and professionals Throughout the authors critique the collaborative process while focusing on its promises and possibilities for families educators and other professionals

Parents and Professionals Partnering for Children With Disabilities Janice M. Fialka, Arlene K. Feldman, Karen C. Mikus, 2012-04-05 The authors use a dance metaphor to capture the complexities and possibilities of building strong partnerships between professionals and parents of children with disabilities
