Constructions of Female Homoeroticism in Early Modern Drama D. Walen, 2005-09-16 This book explores representations of love and desire between female characters in nearly seventy plays written between 1580 and 1660 The work argues that playwrights of late sixteenth and early seventeenth century England recognized and constructed richly diverse tropes of female homoerotic desire Writers place female characters in erotic situations with other female characters in playful scenarios of mistaken identity in anxious moments of amorous intrigue in predatory situations and in enthusiastic utopian representations of romantic love These plays indicate an awareness of female homoeroticism in early modern England and belie statements that literary evidence of homosexuality was concerned primarily with men

Queerying Planning Petra L. Doan,2016-05-23 Current planning practices have largely neglected the needs of the Lesbian Gay Bisexual and Transgender LGBT community for safe urban spaces in which to live work and play This volume fills the gap in the literature on the planning and development of queer spaces and highlights some of the resistance within the planning profession to incorporate gay and lesbian concerns into the planning mainstream Planning lags behind other disciplines concerned with queer urban issues In contrast the field of geography has developed a rich sub specialty in the geographies of sex and gender that examines spaces and the variety of non heteronormative populations that inhabit them This volume brings together both planners and geographers with experience in planning to examine some of the fundamental assumptions of urban planning as they relate to the LGBT community The first few chapters are substantial revisions and expansions of earlier influential work on planning for non conformist populations and the preservation of LGBT neighborhoods Subsequent chapters comprise original contributions that draw on the rich literature from queer theory planning theory and the geography of sexualities to explore the ways that nonconformist populations struggle with heteronormative expectations embedded in planning theory and procedures These chapters consider the intersection of planning and a range of populations including transgendered and gender variant individuals Subsequent chapters examine the ways that variations in the scale of urban and regional governance influence local politics around the implementation of more equitable policies at the city level In addition several chapters critically examine the implications of using the tolerance component of Richard Florida's creative cities arguments. The final section consists of two chapters that explore the ways that urban planning regimes have been used to regulate sexually oriented businesses and the way this regulation of sexualized spaces has implications on the heteronormativity of plans and planners. In summary, these chapters interrogate planning practice and pose questions for academic and professional planners about the ways that the queer community and its needs for spaces have shifted. What do those changes mean for the practice of planning 40 years after the North American Stonewall rebellion and looking forward to the next 40 years? To what extent does existing planning practice constrain the evolution of queer communities or seek to commercialize such spaces to the benefit of large developers and the detriment of marginalized members of the community? How might planning practice change to provide more direct support to the evolution of queer people and the spaces in which they live? This volume draws on these insights as well as the experiences of the various authors to lay out possible future directions for the field of planning to create truly inclusive urban areas.

Passing/Out Kelby Harrison, 2016-05-13 Passing Out adopts an inter-generational, inter-disciplinary and inter-subjective approach to the closeting and revelation of sexual identity, exploring questions of embodiment, ethics and identity in relation to passing or being out. Presenting the latest theoretical and empirical work from scholars working across a range of disciplines including sociology, cultural and media studies, philosophy, gender studies, literary studies and history, this book discusses the nature and history of sexual identity and the manner in which identity functions within social relationships. In recognition of the transformative impact of queer theory upon the study of sexuality and identity, Passing Out constructs a dialogue between the work of scholars whose intellectual careers began prior to the advent of queer theory and those whose work has been more immediately and directly shaped by this approach, with a view to breaking new ground in the field of identity. Shedding light on the meaning of passing and outing in relation to identity, this volume will be of interest to social scientists and scholars of the humanities working on questions of sexuality, identity, embodiment and ethics.

Natashia Lopez and Willyce Kim It provides a corrective to Butler's empowering but essentially white vision of performing identity so that lesbians of colour can claim their identities and remain tied to their own cultural traditions Ultimately the author asks for a reconsideration of the value of identity studies that articulate monolithic identities and whose analyses perpetuate what they seek to disrupt Mirrors and Mirroring from Antiquity to the Early Modern Period Maria Gerolemou, Lilia Diamantopoulou, 2020-01-09 This volume examines mirrors and mirroring through a series of multidisciplinary essays especially focusing on the intersection between technological and cultural dynamics of mirrors The international scholars brought together here explore critical questions around the mirror as artefact and the phenomenon of mirroring Beside the common visual registration of an action or inaction in a two dimensional and reversed form various types of mirrors often possess special abilities which can produce a distorted picture of reality serving in this way illusion and falsehood Part I looks at a selection of theory from ancient writers demonstrating the concern to explore these same questions in antiquity Part II considers the role reflections can play in forming ideas of gender and identity Beyond the everyday we see in Part III how oracular mirrors and magical mirrors reveal the invisible divine prosthetics that allow us to look where the eye cannot reach Finally Part IV considers mirrors roles in displaying the visible and invisible in antiquity and since Historical Dictionary of Lesbian Literature Meredith Miller, 2006 This Historical Dictionary of Lesbian Literature serves two primary functions to provide further information to those already familiar with the field and to explain it to those discovering it for the first time A chronology provides a historical perspective an introduction gives a general yet detailed overview and the dictionary contains several hundred cross referenced entries on important writers such as Sappho Colette and Mary Wollstonecraft styles themes literary movement publishers and outstanding works of the genre Completed by an extensive bibliography this book examines the factors influencing the development of the lesbian identity as an interaction between readers and writers of all kinds of literature BOOK JACKET Queer Dickens Holly Furneaux, 2009-12-10 This book offers a radically new reading of Dickens It argues that rather than representing a largely conventional conservative view of sexuality and gender his corpus is distinctly queer displaying a fascination with the diversity of gender roles the expandability of notions of the family and the multiplicity of sexual desire
