Ideas Mark Bevir, 2002-06-20 Human cultures generate meanings and the history of ideas broadly conceived is the study of these meanings. An adequate theory of culture must therefore rest on a suitable philosophical enquiry into the nature of the history of ideas. Mark Bevir's book explores the forms of reasoning appropriate to the history of ideas, enhancing our understanding by grappling with central questions such as: What is a meaning? What constitutes objective knowledge of the past? What are beliefs and traditions? How can we explain why people held the beliefs they did? The book ranges widely over issues and theorists associated with post-analytic philosophy, post-modernism, hermeneutics, literary theory, political thought and social theory.

Deception In The Marketplace David M. Boush, Marian Friestad, Peter Wright, 2015-12-22 This is the first scholarly book to fully address the topics of the psychology of deceptive persuasion in the marketplace and consumer self-protection. Deception permeates the American marketplace. Deceptive marketing harms consumers' health, welfare and financial resources, reduces people's privacy and self-esteem and ultimately undermines trust in society. Individual consumers must try to protect themselves from marketers' misleading communications by acquiring personal marketplace deception protection skills that go beyond reliance on legal or regulatory protections. Understanding the psychology of deceptive persuasion and consumer self-protection should be a central goal for future consumer behavior research. The authors explore these questions: What makes persuasive communications misleading and deceptive? How do marketing managers decide to prevent or practice deception in planning their campaigns? What skills must consumers acquire to effectively cope with marketers' deception tactics? What does research tell us about how people detect, neutralize and resist misleading persuasion attempts? What does research suggest about how to teach marketplace deception protection skills to adolescents and adults? Chapters cover theoretical perspectives on deceptive persuasion, different types of deception tactics, how deception-minded marketers think, prior research on how people cope with deceptiveness, the nature of marketplace deception protection skills, how people develop deception protection skills in adolescence and adulthood, prior research on teaching consumers marketplace deception protection skills and societal issues such as regulatory frontiers, societal trust and consumer education practices. This unique book is intended for scholars and researchers. It should be essential reading for upper-level and graduate courses in consumer behavior, social psychology, communication and marketing. Marketing practitioners and marketplace regulators will find it stimulating and authoritative, as will social scientists and educators who are concerned with consumer welfare.

 titles Works of Lucian of Samosata (Complete Four Volumes) Lucian of Samosata, 1905-01-01 It is not to be understood that all statements here made are either ascertained facts or universally admitted conjectures The introduction is intended merely to put those who are not scholars and probably have not books of reference at hand in a position to approach the translation at as little disadvantage as may be Accordingly we give the account that commends itself to us without discussion or reference to authorities Those who would like a more complete idea of Lucian should read Croiset's Essai sur la vie et les oeuvres de Lucien on which the first two sections of this introduction are very largely based The only objections to the book if they are objections are that it is in French and of 400 octavo pages It is eminently readable With the exception of a very small number of statements of which the truth is by no means certain all that we know of Lucian is derived from his own writings And any reader who prefers to have his facts at first rather than at second hand can consequently get them by reading certain of his pieces and making the natural deductions from them Those that contain biographical matter are in the order corresponding to the periods of his life on which they throw light The Vision Demosthenes Nigrinus The Portrait study and Defence in which Lucian is Lycinus The Way to write History The double indictment in which he is The Syrian The Fisher Parrhesiades Swans and Amber Alexander Hermotimus_ Lycinus Menippus and Icaromenippus in which Menippus represents him A literary Prometheus Herodotus Zeuxis Harmonides The Scythian
 The Death of Peregrine The Book fancier Demonax The Rhetorician's Vade mecum Dionysus Heracles A Slip of the Tongue Apology for The dependent Scholar _ Of these The Vision is a direct piece of autobiography there is intentional but veiled autobiography in several of the other pieces in others again conclusions can be drawn from comparison of his statements with facts known from external sources Lucian lived from about 125 to about 200 A D under the Roman Emperors Antoninus Pius M Aurelius and Lucius Verus Commodus and perhaps Pertinax He was a Syrian born at Samosata on the Euphrates of parents to whom it was of importance that he should earn his living without spending much time or money on education His maternal uncle being a statuarius he was apprenticed to him having shown an aptitude for modelling in the wax that he surreptitiously scraped from his school writing tablets The apprenticeship lasted one day It is clear that he was impulsive all through life and when his uncle corrected him with a stick for breaking a piece of marble he ran off home disposed already to think he had had enough of statuary His mother took his part and he made up his mind by the aid of a vision that came to him the same night The Works of Lucian of Samosata; In Four Volumes Lucian Of Samosata,2023-09-16 Reproduction of the original The publishing house Megali specialises in reproducing historical works in large print to make reading easier for people with impaired vision Encyclopedia of Business and Professional Ethics Deborah C Poff,Alex C.
