The Politics of Oil in Indonesia Khong Cho Oon, 1986-07-03 This book examines the relationship between foreign companies and government within the Indonesian oil industry It is concerned in particular to identify those factors which determine the balance between central regulation and untrammelled company activity in order to evaluate the choices which the government has to make in the creation of its policies Given the extent of foreign investment in the mineral extractive industries of many of the less developed countries such policies are of major importance From his study of the operation of Indonesian oil contracts Dr Khong concludes that the formal terms of an agreement may well give a misleading impression of the actual allocation of the benefits from petroleum extraction The common perception that a basic shift in favour of host governments has occurred is shown to be largely misplaced whatever relative advances they may have achieved

The Sovereign Entrepreneur Merrie Gilbert Klapp, 2019-05-15 Capitalist governments around the world however strongly they profess free market principles have become deeply involved in the international market for petroleum What success have they had as oil entrepreneurs and what do their achievements and failures tell us about the nature of the state In The Sovereign Entrepreneur Merrie Gilbert Klapp develops a compelling comparative logic of state oil entrepreneurship Drawing upon dozens of interviews with policymakers and company executives in Norway Britain Indonesia and Malaysia Klapp addresses a little understood determinant of policy the pivotal bargaining power that domestic and international interests wield in different countries Advanced capitalist countries she finds have generally not achieved their goals in the oil sector

they have been constrained by powerful well organized domestic interests Less developed countries by contrast have faced little opposition at home but the international banks and the multinationals have severely limited their attempts to expand into the global petroleum market klapp argues that bureaucratic and domestic politics not just economics underlie the varying success of different countries in the marketplace

Standing Guard Charles Lipson, 2024-06-21 Foreign investors are drawn abroad by the lure of profits but they also face significant risks Standing Guard examines how investors coped with these risks and protected their capital abroad in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries Toward the end of the twentieth century less developed countries determined to control their own economic development nationalized their most lucrative oil fields and mineral concessions and regulated all forms of foreign investment While some firms were hard hit many others adapted profitably to this new political environment They rearranged their assets for self protection and took full advantage of the tax breaks low wages and other incentives that attract capital to less developed countries At stake were not only corporate profits but also the character of national economic development and the global pattern of property rights Charles Lispon traces these evolving issues from the days of gunboat diplomacy to modern corporate negotiations showing how investors have tried to minimize their vulnerability to economic nationalism Standing Guard analyzes the shifting corporate strategies and shows how they have affected U S foreign policy providing a thorough clearly reasoned and insightful analysis of the long term changes in investment security This title is part of UC Press s Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press s mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1985
