marketing managers and financial managers join forces within any business the result can often be poor communication on financial criteria and goals The risk of this situation occurring is inevitably present when those with different professional backgrounds and roles are working in accordance with their own norms In his seminal 1956 paper on general systems theory the economist Kenneth Boulding referred to the phenomenon of specialised ears and generalised deafness which can be seen to exist when marketing managers are financially illiterate or when financial managers lack the necessary insights to design implement and operate accounting systems which are useful to marketing managers in carrying out their roles It is increasingly difficult to attach credence to the idea of marketing managers who lack financial skills or financial managers who fail to relate to the context in which marketing managers operate Understanding the marketing accounting interface is therefore important in generating emergent properties from the interaction of marketers and accountants whereby the whole is greater than the sum of the parts The chapters in this volume seek to address this challenge This book was originally published as a special issue of the Journal of Marketing Management Information Security Management Handbook, Volume 4 Harold F. Tipton,Micki Krause Nozaki,2010-06-22 Every year in response to advancements in technology and new laws in different countries and regions there are many changes and updates to the body of knowledge required of IT security professionals Updated annually to keep up with the increasingly fast pace of change in the field the Information Security Management Handbook is the single most Model Policies and Procedures for Not-for-Profit Organizations Edward J.

values sell (EasyRead Super Large 18pt Edition) , The Effectiveness of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 in Preventing and Detecting Fraud in Financial Statements Debra DeVay,Debra L. De Vay,2006 The collapse of Enron WorldCom and other large corporations in 2001 and 2002 motivated Congress to pass the Sarbanes Oxley Act of 2002 SOX The purpose of this legislation was to restore investor confidence in the United States stock markets and to prevent and detect fraud in financial statements as well This dissertation examines the effectiveness of SOX for the latter purpose of preventing and detecting fraud using statistical enforcement data presented by the Securities and Exchange Commission and financial statement restatement numbers published by the Huron Corporation The two methodologies utilized to analyze the data were the unpaired t test and the chi square test Surveys were also emailed to executives and certified public accountants across the country to extract opinions as to the effectiveness of SOX The statistical analysis results displayed that in 61% to 65% of the data sets the numbers prior to the enactment of SOX were no different than the numbers subsequent to the enactment of SOX The majority of the survey respondents feel that the benefits of SOX are not worth the costs it is not effective in the prevention and detection of fraud in financial statements and that it should be modified but not eliminated entirely While some sentiment exists that SOX is salvageable if revisions are executed both the quantitative and qualitative analyses indicate support of the null hypothesis that SOX is not effective in the prevention and detection of fraud in financial statements
