Program Madness The Essential Revenue Generating Toolbook For Afterschool Summer Year Round Childrens Programs:

Summer Programs. Afterschool Alert. Issue Brief Afterschool Alliance, Washington, DC.,2002 The need for youth to be supervised and safe does not end with the school year For this reason summer programs like those funded by the US Department of Education s 21st Century Community Learning Centers 21st CCLC program are vital for the well being of youth Summer schools have traditionally served youth who are in need of remedial academic assistance although many schools and community based organizations have created programs which provide recreation and extracurricular learning for all youth Like afterschool programs summer programs keep kids safe help working families and improve academic achievement Summer programs also provide opportunities to encourage service and volunteerism among young people Additionally summer programs are also critical to ensuring that youth receive the same nutritious meals and snacks during the summer as those offered during the school year Although summer programs provide an essential service to youth and the community these programs are often among the first to be affected by budget cuts and communities increasingly are looking toward grants like the 21st CCLC program to provide youth with safe and enriching summer experiences Contains 10 endnotes

Making Summer Count Jennifer Sloan McCombs,Catherine H. Augustine,Heather L. Schwartz,2011 Students typically lose knowledge and skills during the summer particularly low income students Districts and private providers can benefit from the evidence on summer programming to maximize program effectiveness quality reach and funding

21st Century Community Learning Centers Afterschool Alliance,2014 The 21st Century Community Learning Centers 21st CCLC initiative is the only federal funding source dedicated exclusively to before school afterschool and summer learning programs Each state education agency receives funds based on its share of Title I funding for low income students at high poverty low performing schools Funds are also allocated to territories and the Bureau of Indian Affairs 21st CCLC programs provide 1 Academic enrichment activities that help students meet state and local achievement standards 2 A broad array of additional services designed to reinforce and complement the regular academic program and 3 Literacy and related educational development services to the families of children who are served in the program This brief resource describes the outcomes and benefits of the initiative the current state of 21st CCLC funding and ways to support the Centers

Investing in Successful Summer Programs Jennifer Sloan McCombs,Catherine H. Augustine,Fatih Unlu,2021-06-30 Research evidence suggests that summer breaks contribute to income based achievement and opportunity gaps for children and youth However summertime can also be used to provide programs that support an array of goals for children and youth including improved academic achievement physical health mental health social and emotional well being the acquisition of skills and the development of interests This report is intended to provide practitioners policymakers and funders current information about the effectiveness of summer programs designed for children and youth entering grades K 12 Policymakers increasingly expect that the creation of and investment in summer programs will be based on research evidence. Notably, the 2015 Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) directs schools and districts to adopt programs that are supported by research evidence if those programs are funded by specific federal streams. Although summer programs can benefit children and youth who attend, not all programs result in improved outcomes. RAND researchers identified 43 summer programs with positive outcomes that met the top three tiers of ESSA's evidence standards. These programs were identified through an initial literature search of 3,671 citations and a full-text review of 1,360 documents and address academic learning, learning at home, social and emotional well-being, and employment and career outcomes. The authors summarize the evidence and provide detailed information on each of the 43 programs, focusing on the evidence linking summer programs with outcomes and classifying the programs according to the top three evidence tiers: strong, moderate, or promising evidence consistent with ESSA and subsequent federal regulatory guidance.
