Program Applicants As A Comparison Group In Evaluating Training Programs:

Program Applicants as a Comparison Group in Evaluating Training Programs Stephen H. Bell, 1995-01-01 This monograph critiques the many nonexperimental impact estimation approaches that have been based on external comparison groups. It proposes an approach to evaluating employment and training. The case for applicant based comparison groups, desired qualities in a nonexperimental estimation technique, potential nonparticipant comparison groups, the history of applicant based comparison groups, and the regression discontinuity model for screening out based impact analysis, estimating program effects in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children, Homemaker, Home Health Aide Demonstrations, testing alternative estimates for selection bias, classical and Bayesian approaches to model validation, and summary and recommendations. The rationale for applicant based comparison groups, empirical estimates using alternative applicant based comparison groups, and specifying validation tests. Appended is information about the following: construction of grouped data, regression procedures, tests for proven bias in nonexperimental impact estimates in the study of voluntary versus mandatory programs, and upper and lower bounds on the risk function. Contains 24 tables, figures, and 141 references. MN

Evaluating the Net Impact of School-to-work, 1997 Evidence-Based Practice Manual Albert R.

Roberts, Kenneth Yeager, 2004-01-15 This book provides an interdisciplinary approach summarising the key elements, issues, concepts, and procedures in developing and applying evidence based practice. Discussions include programme evaluation, quality, and operational improvement strategies, research grant applications utilising statistical procedures, and more. The SAGE Handbook of Social Research Methods Pertti Alasuutari, Leonard Bickman, Julia Brannen, 2008-02-25 The SAGE Handbook of Social Research Methods is a must for every social science researcher. It charts the new and evolving terrain of social research methodology, covering qualitative, quantitative, and mixed methods in one volume. The Handbook includes chapters on each phase of the research process: research design, methods of data collection, and the processes of analyzing and interpreting data. The volume maintains that there is much more to research than learning skills and techniques; methodology involves the fit between theory, research questions, research design, and analysis. The book also includes several chapters that describe historical and current directions in social research, debating crucial subjects such as qualitative versus quantitative paradigms, how to judge the credibility of types of research, and the increasingly topical issue of research ethics. The Handbook serves as an invaluable resource for approaching research with an open mind. This volume maps the field of social research methods using an approach that will prove valuable for both students and researchers. Randomized Experiments for Planning and Evaluation Robert F. Boruch, 1997 Boruch untangles the complexities of randomized field experiments, exploring the criteria for deciding whether a programme has worked or not, standards used to judge the ethical propriety of the experiments, and baseline measures. Local Economic and Employment Development (LEED) Evaluating Local Economic and Employment Development How to Assess What Works among Programmes and Policies OECD,2004-11-30 This book examines best practices in evaluating programmes for local and regional economic and employment development Resources in Education ,1997 Handbook of the Economics of Education Eric A. Hanushek,Stephen J. Machin,Ludger Woessmann,2016-04-27 The volume of research into the economics of education has grown rapidly in recent years In this comprehensive new Handbook editors Eric Hanushek Stephen Machin and Ludger Woessmann assemble original contributions from leading researchers addressing contemporary advances in the field Each chapter illuminates major methodological and theoretical developments and directs the reader to productive new lines of research As a result these concise overviews of the existing literature offer an essential jumpstart for both students and researchers alike Demonstrates how new methodologies are yielding fresh perspectives in education economics Uses rich data to study issues of high contemporary policy relevance Explores innovations in higher education competition and the uses of technology Research Design Leonard Bickman,2000-01-24 Leading social research methodologists and evaluators explore research design issues in this second of two volumes inspired by the work of Donald Campbell and sponsored by the American Evaluation Association The authors address such issues as quasi experimentation the proper conduct of social inquiry ways to take account of threats to validity plausible rival hypotheses in measurement and design subject selection and loss in randomized experiments the use of evaluation to assess the validity of computer simulations method variance and time series experiments Applied researchers who want to improve their research designs will find this book a compelling and thought provoking read Training the East German Labour Force Michael Lechner,2012-12-06 After unification large amounts of money were spent to retrain the East Germany labour force in order to ease the transition to the new market economy This book uses microeconomic methods and individual data to evaluate the impact of these training programmes on the participants labour market situation It discusses the appropriate evaluation methodology as well as the effectiveness of the actual programmes for the individual participants The empirical results suggest that the public sector sponsored training programmes were fairly ineffective In contrast the training organized and paid by the enterprises caused considerable earnings growths Handbook of Labor Economics Orley Ashenfelter,David Card,1999-11-18 Modern labor economics has continued to grow and develop since the first volumes of this Handbook were published The subject matter of labor economics continues to have at its core an attempt to systematically find empirical analyses that are consistent with a systematic and parsimonious theoretical understanding of the diverse phenomenon that make up the labor market As before many of these analyses are provocative and controversial because they are so directly relevant to both public policy and private decision making In many ways the modern development in the field of labor economics continues to set the standards for the best work in applied economics This volume of the Handbook has a notable representation of authors and topics of importance from throughout the world Youth and the Postindustrial Future ,1997

Evaluating Welfare and Training Programs Charles F. Manski, Irwin Garfinkel, 1992 Almost everyone would like to see the enactment of sound practical measures to help disadvantaged people get off welfare and find jobs at decent wages and over the past quarter century federal and state governments have struggled to develop just such programs How do we know whether they are having the hoped for effect How do we know whether these vast outlays of money are helping the people they are designed to reach All welfare and training programs have been subject to professional evaluations including social experiments and demonstrations designed to test new ideas This book reviews what we have discovered from past assessments and suggests how welfare and training programs should be planned for the 1990s The authors of this volume each a recognized expert in the evaluation of social programs do more than summarize what we have learned so far They clarify why the issue of the proper conduct and interpretation of evaluations has itself been a subject of continuing controversy In part the problem is organizational requiring the integrated efforts of social scientists public officials and the professionals who execute evaluations In addition there is a dispute about scientific method should evaluators try to understand the complex social processes that make programs succeed or fail or should they focus on inputs and outputs treating the programs themselves as black boxes whose machinery remains hidden Evaluating Welfare and Training Programs will be important for policy researchers and evaluation professionals social scientists concerned with evaluation methods public officials working in social policy and students of public policy economics and social work The Digest of Social Experiments David H. Greenberg, Mark Shroder, 2004 Contains brief summaries of 240 known completed social experiments Each summary outlines the cost and time frame of the demonstration the treatments tested outcomes of interest sample sizes and target population research components major findings important methodological limitations and design issues encountered and other relevant topics In addition very brief outlines of 21 experiments and one quasi experiment still in progress as of April 2003 are also provided p 3 Does Training for the Disadvantaged Work? Larry L.
