Mickey,2013-04-17 Named one of the year s best gardening books by The Spectator UK Nov 2014 The 1890s saw a revolution in advertising Cheap paper faster printing rural mail delivery railroad shipping and chromolithography combined to pave the way for the first modern mass produced catalogs. The most prominent of these reaching American households by the thousands were seed and nursery catalogs with beautiful pictures of middle class homes surrounded by sprawling lawns, exotic plants and the latest garden accessories in other words the quintessential English style garden. America's Romance with the English Garden is the story of tastemakers and homemakers of savvy businessmen and a growing American middle class eager to buy their products. It's also the story of the beginnings of the modern garden industry which seduced the masses with its images and fixed the English garden in the mind of the American consumer. Seed and nursery catalogs delivered aspirational images to front doorsteps from California to Maine and the English garden became the look of America.

Conservation and Utilization of Horticultural Genetic Resources P.E. Rajasekharan, V. Ramanatha Rao, 2019-06-25. The conservation of crop genetic resources is one of the important elements in efforts to sustainably increase agricultural production in low income countries and to guarantee long term food security especially for the low income population groups in these countries. Horticultural crops as high value crops have an important role to play in revitalizing rural economies and can add significantly to national economies. Moreover horticulture provides more than twice the number of jobs compared to traditional cereal crop production and the shifting of conventional agriculture towards high value horticulture has increased employment opportunities in developing countries. To exploit this potential researchers need a vast array of horticultural genetic resources and information on new traits. Horticultural crops which are only a part of PGRFA Plant Genetic Resources for Food and Agriculture are characterized by a wide and varied range of species. In fact there are five major horticultural crop groups: fruit and nut crops, vegetables, food legumes, roots and tubers and lastly the ornamental and medicinal group. In this context the present book provides a comprehensive overview of the current state of conservation and utilization of horticultural genetic resources addressing contemporary approaches to conservation in connection with different technologies including biotechnological approaches as practised in India and in some cases globally. It includes a brief chapter on the unique nature of horticultural genetic resources providing a rationale for viewing them as being distinct from field crop genetic resources. Subsequent chapters share insights on protocols for the conservation of selected horticultural crops ex situ and focus on the increased need to complement these efforts with in situ conservation approaches. Geospatial tools are also briefly described emphasizing their utility with regard to mapping and managing resources. The book also explores the wild gene pool in horticulture crops, discusses legal aspects related to horticultural genetic resources and biotechnological aspects and describes the key aspects of sustainable management and replenishment. Given its scope the book offers a valuable resource for all horticulturists, graduate students, researchers, policymakers, conservationists and NGOs engaged in horticulture in particular and biodiversity in general.
