2 Under the Bridge James Richard Langston,2016-02-16 Whatever Touches Your Life 1983 By James Richard Langston Listen hear the cricket In the softness of the night Stand quietly by a meadow See the birds taking flight Hear the whisper of a breeze Blowing through trees of pine Let whatever touches your life Be in tune to touching mine Touch the velvet of a rose On an early summer s day Smell the sweet aroma Of a field of new mown hay Throw caution to the wild wind Play it loose just one time Let whatever touches your life Be in tune to touching mine Blink your eyes at the sun As it sets behind the hill Skip a rock across the pond By the old rustic mill Cheer your team on to victory As it comes from behind Let whatever touches your life Be in tune to touching mine Taste a frosty snowflake As it falls upon your tongue See a mother hen fret As she hovers o er her young Stay in tune with mother nature Give her reason give her new study of those excluded from the national narrative of the West Dan Moos challenges both traditional and revisionist perspectives in his exploration of the role of the mythology of the American West in the creation of a national identity While Moos concurs with contemporary scholars who note that the myths of the American West depended in part upon the exclusion of certain groups African Americans Native Americans and Mormons he notes that many scholars in their eagerness to identify and validate such excluded positions have given short shrift to the cultural power of the myths they seek to debunk That cultural power was such Moos notes that these disenfranchised groups themselves sought to harness it to their own ends through the active appropriation of the terms of those myths in advocating for their own inclusion in the national narrative that because the construction of American culture was never designed to accommodate these outsiders their writings display a division between their imagined place in the narrative of the nation and their effacement within the real West marked by intolerance and inequality Literature Connections to American History K6 Lynda G.
