conveyed in culturally specific ways the authors adopt a range of voices and perspectives One chapter is written as though it was a letter from an older sister counseling her brother on how to be a doctor in Malawi Another is framed as a eulogy for a well loved village magistrate in Papua New Guinea who may have been killed by sorcery Beneath the novelty of the examples are some serious messages that Ilana Gershon highlights in her introduction These ethnographies reveal the connection between work and culture the impact of societal values on the conditions of employment Readers will be surprised at how much they can learn about an entire culture by being given the chance to understand just one occupation Theatreland Paul Ibell,2009-01-05 Covering the five centuries from Shakespeare s Bankside playhouses to today s West End Paul Ibell s Theatreland explores the history and current state of the London stage taking the reader through the streets and alleyways of the theatre capital of the world London s theatre district is quite literally built on the past Although the book celebrates this and the artistic achievements that still resonate today it also emphasises that theatre is an art form that can only survive and flourish through fresh talent new work and constant reinterpretation of old classics Through a series of entertaining and engaging chapters on themes personalities and trends Theatreland reflects the effortless co existence between past and present that is such a feature of London s theatre world and shows how actors and producers playwrights and publicists theatre historians and modern architects choreographers critics and customers all play their part in ensuring that London remains the theatre capital of the world Theatreland brings back to life the generations of actors impresarios princes and playwrights who created and shaped this cityscape and describes how the 21st century theatre industry continues to develop and change Encountering Environments through the Arts Victoria Hunter,Shirley Chubb,2025-03-31 This edited collection of essays and artist reflections presents perspectives from arts and humanities researchers exploring how individuals and collectives engage with relate to and experience environments The term environment is broadly conceived in this volume and encompasses rural landscapes and nature spaces urban and architectural sites institutional workplace and organisational spaces domestic environments and public and private realms Exploring what it means to encounter environments through embodied artistic and reflexive practices the essays and reflections draw on theoretical fields of feminist posthuman discourse new materialism anthropology human geography queer studies performing and fine arts art and health psychology and ecological perspectives Drawing on dialogues emerging from discursive border crossings between disciplines Encountering Environments through the Arts includes contributions from the fields of dance walking practice sonic arts visual art cultural and human geography somatic movement practice poetry and architecture This collection offers insights and reflections on environment and experience from a range of voices established and emerging scholars independent researchers and practitioner researchers within and beyond the academy Providing a truly interdisciplinary range of research that centres on notions of site specific practice and experience this is an invaluable contribution to performance studies and the wider field of arts and humanities The reflective accounts and articulation of research methods
