Neurolaw and Responsibility for Action Bebhinn Donnelly-Lazarov,2018-05-03

Law regulates human behaviour a phenomenon about which neuroscience has much to say Neuroscience can tell us whether a defendant suffers from a brain abnormality or injury and it can correlate these neural deficits with criminal offending Using fMRI and other technologies it might indicate whether a witness is telling lies or the truth It can further propose neuro interventions to change the brains of offenders and so to reduce their propensity to offend And it can make suggestions about whether a defendant knows or merely suspects a prohibited state of affairs so drawing distinctions among the mental states that are central to legal responsibility Each of these matters has philosophical import is a neurological deficit inculpatory or exculpatory what is the proper role for law if the mind is no more than the brain is lying really a brain state and can neuroscience really read the brain In this edited collection leading contributors to the field provide new insights on these matters bringing to light the great challenges that arise when disciplinary boundaries merge
