Shaver, 2023-06-20 In this compelling book prominent investigators Mario Mikulincer and Phillip R Shaver review the state of the science of attachment based interventions in psychotherapy and beyond They critically evaluate a range of programs that aim to strengthen parent child couple and therapist client relationships The theoretical and empirical underpinnings of each intervention are examined as are specific techniques used to enhance felt security and foster personal growth The book also looks at evidence based interventions outside the mental health domain including programs that target teacher student relationships and academic performance Looking to the future the authors discuss emerging applications of attachment theory in medicine and health care management and organizational behavior and group and intergroup processes See also the related work from Mikulincer and Shaver Attachment Theory Expanded Security Dynamics in Individuals Dyads Groups and Societies What we learn and when we learn it: sensitive periods in development Etienne De Villers-Sidani, Virginia Penhune, 2014-11-21 The impact of training or experience is not the same at all points in development Children who receive music lessons or learn a second language before age 7-8 are more proficient as adults Early exposure to drugs or trauma makes people more likely to become addicted or depressed later in life Rat pups exposed to specific frequencies from 9-13 days post partum show expanded cortical representations of these frequencies Young birds must hear and copy their native song within 1-2 months of birth or they may never learn it at all These are examples of sensitive periods developmental windows where maturation and specific experience interact to produce differential long term effects on the brain and behavior While
