

7 DIFFERENT TYPES OF LEARNING STYLES

When people identify the learning style that suits them best, they tend to stick with it. However, research has shown that the most effective study comes from blending different learning styles together.

VISUAL

Visual learners do well when they use symbols, boxes, charts and colours in their notes. If you find that you learn better by reading and looking at pictures, diagrams and graphs etc. the chances are you're a visual learner.

VERBAL

Techniques used by verbal learners are reciting information out loud, writing your own notes and highlighting the key points. Having a passion for words, writing, tongue twisters, rhymes, may indicate that this learning style is for you.

AURAL

Aural learning involves using sound and music. Auditory learners develop understanding and memory by hearing and listening. If you find it easier to understand spoken instructions rather than reading, aural learning will benefit you.

PHYSICAL

Physical learning involves using your body and sense of touch to learn. Physical learners learn by doing, touching, moving, building, and are described as a 'hands-on'. If you find it difficult to sit still for long periods of time, chances are you're a physical learner.

LOGICAL

Logical learners often learn by asking a lot of questions. Logical learners want to understand the whole picture. They are natural thinkers who learn by classifying, categorising and thinking abstractly about patterns & relationships etc.

SOCIAL

Social learners prefer to learn in groups rather than on their own and like generating ideas by brainstorming with others. If you like taking part in group sports and prefer social activities than doing things on your own, you may be a social learner.

SOLITARY

Solitary learners tend to be more independent and introspective, spending a lot of time on their own, enjoying their own company. If you enjoy spending time alone, keeping a journal and engaging in self-analysis to gain a deeper understanding of yourself, you may be a solitary learner.

comprehensive and systematic review of multilingual L2 learners spoken Chinese focusing on the dual dimensions of speech competence and speech performance. Specifically by adopting a mixed methods approach it explores the cognitive affective and socio cultural differences between intermediate and advanced multilingual learners L2 Chinese speech competence and speech performance. Drawing on a theoretical framework underpinned by the affective filter hypothesis L2 willingness to communicate model L2 motivational self system and L2 speech production models this book not only contributes to our theoretical understanding of the roles of various factors in L2 Chinese speech competence and speech performance but also offers practical insights into the implications for both teachers and learners in terms of how to minimize the gap between these two dimensions among L2 Chinese learners. It concludes with a discussion on the limitations of L2 Chinese speech and on future directions for the field.

Encyclopedia of the Sciences of Learning Norbert M. Seel, 2011-10-05

Over the past century educational psychologists and researchers have posited many theories to explain how individuals learn i.e. how they acquire, organize and deploy knowledge and skills. The 20th century can be considered the century of psychology on learning and related fields of interest such as motivation, cognition, metacognition etc. and it is fascinating to see the various mainstreams of learning remembered and forgotten over the 20th century and note that basic assumptions of early theories survived several paradigm shifts of psychology and epistemology. Beyond folk psychology and its naive theories of learning, psychological learning theories can be grouped into some basic categories such as behaviorist learning theories, connectionist learning theories, cognitive learning theories, constructivist learning theories and social learning theories. Learning theories are not limited to psychology and related fields of interest but rather we can find the topic of learning in various disciplines such as philosophy and epistemology, education, information science, biology and as a result of the emergence of computer technologies especially also in the field of computer sciences and artificial intelligence. As a consequence machine learning struck a chord in the 1980s and became an important field of the learning sciences in general. As the learning sciences became more specialized and complex the various fields of interest were widely spread and separated from each other as a consequence even presently there is no comprehensive overview of the sciences of learning or the central theoretical concepts and vocabulary on which researchers rely. The Encyclopedia of the Sciences of Learning provides an up to date broad and authoritative coverage of the specific terms mostly used in the sciences of learning and its related fields including relevant areas of instruction, pedagogy, cognitive sciences and especially machine learning and knowledge engineering. This modern compendium will be an indispensable source of information for scientists, educators, engineers and technical staff active in all fields of learning. More specifically the Encyclopedia provides fast access to the most relevant theoretical terms, provides up to date broad and authoritative coverage of the most important theories within the various fields of the learning sciences and adjacent sciences and communication technologies, supplies clear and precise explanations of the theoretical terms, cross references to related entries and up to date references to important research and publications The Encyclopedia also contains biographical entries of individuals who have substantially contributed to the sciences of learning the entries are written by a distinguished panel of researchers in the various fields of the learning sciences

Adopting the Track of Term: An Emotional Symphony within Looking At Type And Learning Styles

In a world taken by displays and the ceaseless chatter of immediate interaction, the melodic elegance and psychological symphony produced by the published word frequently disappear in to the background, eclipsed by the relentless noise and interruptions that permeate our lives. But, set within the pages of Looking At Type And Learning Styles a stunning fictional treasure full of raw thoughts, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by a masterful composer of language, this fascinating masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological journey, skillfully unraveling the concealed tunes and profound impact resonating within each carefully constructed phrase. Within the depths of this poignant review, we can explore the book's main harmonies, analyze their enthralling writing type, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers' souls.
