

Modern Lighting

SJ Ball

A horizontal light fixture is shown. It consists of a long, white, cylindrical body that tapers slightly towards the right. At the right end of the cylinder, there is a red, semi-circular, glowing light source. The light source has a soft, diffused glow, suggesting it is illuminated. The background is plain white.

Lighting the Shakespearean Stage, 1567 - 1642 Robert B. Graves, 1999-12-08 In Lighting the Shakespearean Stage 1567-1642 R. B. Graves examines the lighting of early modern English drama from both historical and aesthetic perspectives. He traces the contrasting traditions of sunlit amphitheaters and candlelit hall playhouses, describes the different lighting techniques, and estimates the effect of these techniques both indoors and outdoors. Graves discusses the importance of stage lighting in determining the dramatic effect, even in cases where the manipulation of light was not under the direct control of the theater artists. He devotes a chapter to the early modern lighting equipment available to English Renaissance actors and surveys theatrical lighting before the construction of permanent playhouses in London. Elizabethan stage lighting, he argues, drew on both classical and medieval precedents. Old-House Journal, 1987-07

Old House Journal is the original magazine devoted to restoring and preserving old houses. For more than 35 years, our mission has been to help old house owners repair, restore, update, and decorate buildings of every age and architectural style. Each issue explores hands-on restoration techniques, practical architectural guidelines, historical overviews, and homeowner stories, all in a trusted, authoritative voice.

Everyday Modernity in China Madeleine Yue Dong, Joshua Lewis Goldstein, 2011-11-15 Is modernity in non-Western societies always an alternative modernity, a derivative copy of an original modernity that began in the West? No answer the contributors to this book, who then offer an absorbing set of case studies from modern China to make their point. By focusing on people's ordinary routines of working, eating, going to school, and traveling, the authors examine the notion of modernity as it has been staged in the minute details of Chinese life. Essays explore people's basic search for food, water, and lighting during the late Qing, early republican era; contradictory attitudes toward women and the violence of foot binding; the role of Chinese scientists in promoting a shift to modern, nationalistic discourses; the growing popularity of savings banks among urban Chinese in the early twentieth century; the transnational and national identities of returned overseas Chinese in Xiamen, Fujian Province; and middle-class Shanghai travelers who imagined themselves as cosmopolitan consumers. Looking at the post-Mao reform era of the late twentieth century, contributors explore the theme of revaluation: that is, the way China's move into global capitalism is commoditizing goods and services that previously were not for sale, from domestic labor to recycling and water resources in an increasingly consumer-oriented society.

LED Lighting T. Q. Khan, P. Bodrogi, Q. T. Vinh, H. Winkler, 2015-02-09 Promoting the design, application, and evaluation of visually and electrically effective LED light sources and luminaires for general indoor lighting, as well as outdoor and vehicle lighting, this book combines the knowledge of LED lighting technology with human perceptual aspects for lighting scientists and engineers. After an introduction to the human visual system and current radiometry, photometry, and color science, the basics of LED chip and phosphor technology are described, followed by specific issues of LED radiometry.

and the optical thermal and electric modeling of LEDs This is supplemented by the relevant practical issues of pulsed LEDs remote phosphor LEDs and the aging of LED light sources Relevant human visual aspects closely related to LED technology are described in detail for the photopic and the mesopic range of vision including color rendering binning whiteness Circadian issues as well as flicker perception brightness visual performance conspicuity and disability glare The topic of LED luminaires is discussed in a separate chapter including retrofit LED lamps LED based road and street luminaires and LED luminaires for museum and school lighting Specific sections are devoted to the modularity of LED luminaires their aging and the planning and evaluation methods of new LED installations The whole is rounded off by a summary and a look towards future developments

Natural Light Hestia Thornbrook,2025-01-04 Natural Light offers a comprehensive exploration of daylight's crucial role in architectural design and human well being addressing the growing disconnect between modern indoor living and our biological need for natural illumination The book uniquely bridges scientific understanding with practical architectural solutions examining how natural light impacts both human health and sustainable building design Through a careful blend of historical context and contemporary research it demonstrates why proper daylighting is not merely an aesthetic choice but a fundamental aspect of human centric architecture The work progresses logically through three main sections beginning with the scientific principles of natural light and its biological effects moving to architectural strategies illustrated through real world case studies and concluding with practical implementation methods for both new construction and renovations Drawing from peer reviewed research in chronobiology and architectural studies the book presents compelling evidence for the importance of natural light in building design while offering specific solutions for common challenges such as light redirecting systems and smart glazing technologies What sets this resource apart is its accessible approach to complex technical concepts making it valuable for both professionals and informed homeowners The book addresses specific challenges across different climate zones and urban contexts providing detailed guidelines for window placement glazing selection and interior layout optimization By connecting architecture with environmental psychology and energy conservation it offers a holistic perspective on creating naturally lit environments that enhance both building performance and occupant well being
