a variety of disciplines It demonstrates that the study of the components of innovation invention acceptance and the context in which they occur is essential if social change is to be better understood The book contains detailed case studies that cover a broad geographical range in the prehistoric historic and modern world It simulates and analyses the conditions of innovation and provides the necessary theoretical framework The technologies involved are diverse herding fishing pottery making metalworking and land management Several important issues emerge from this diversity it is the context of innovation that determines whether change will take place within hierarchical societies ideology can both stimulate and deny innovation and the potential for innovation experimentation and change in traditional societies is systematically underrated by the Western world which is dominated by a narrow technological perspective The contributors also study innovation in social and applied anthropology industrial planning and the natural sciences What s New will provoke renewed discussion throughout the archaeological community about the process of innovation Anthropologists human geographers and other social scientists will find it fascinating because it provides a time dimension for the study of the conditions of human and social change
