Breastfeeding Patricia Stuart-Macadam, 2017-09-29 Breastfeeding is a biocultural phenomenon not only is it a biological process but it is also a culturally determined behavior As such it has important implications for understanding the past present and future condition of our species In general scholars have emphasized either the biological or the cultural aspects of breastfeeding but not both As biological anthropologists the editors of this volume feel that an evolutionary approach combining both aspects is essential One of the goals of their book is to incorporate data from diverse fields to present a more holistic view of breastfeeding through the inclusion of research from a number of different disciplines including biological and social cultural anthropology nutrition and medicine The resulting book presenting the complexity of the issues surrounding very basic decisions about infant nutrition will fill a void in the existing literature on breastfeeding

Breastfeeding Janet Dalzell, Elizabeth Rogerson, 2018-10-08 In recent decades global healthcare professionals and organisations have formed a wide evidence based consensus that breastfeeding is usually the best option for both mother and baby However women and professionals alike often face a sea of shifting attitudes and values and complex social cultural political and economic factors that may influence women s feeding decisions This book examines the global evidence and the factors that affect women s decisions around initiating breastfeeding and maintaining it through the first year of their children s lives It outlines potential areas for development and policy change at practitioner and strategic levels and shows how health professionals can effectively communicate and provide information to help women make unpressured but informed decisions Breastfeeding Contemporary Issues in Practice and Policy is essential reading for healthcare professionals policy movers and shapers and all those with an interest in breastfeeding who wish to influence the development of related policies practices and healthcare services
