Beath, Yannis Katsoulacos, 1991-02-22 There are few industries in modern market economies that do not manufacture differentiated products This book provides a systematic explanation and analysis of the widespread prevalence of this important category of products The authors concentrate on models in which product selection is endogenous In the first four chapters they consider models that try to predict the level of product differentiation that would emerge in situations of market equilibrium These market equilibria with differentiated products are characterised and then compared with social welfare optima Particular attention is paid to the distinction between horizontal and vertical differentiation as well as to the related issues of product quality and durability This book brings together the most important theoretical contributions to these topics in a succinct and coherent manner One of its major strengths is the way in which it carefully sets out the basic intuition behind the formal results It will be useful to advanced undergraduate and graduate students taking courses in industrial economics and microeconomic theory State-by-State Guide to Commercial Real Estate Leases, 2024 Edition preserving opportunities for dynamic rather than static competition In a high technology economy Gilbert argues innovation matters Gilbert considers both theory and available empirical evidence on the relationships among market structure firm behavior and the production of new products and services He reviews the distinctive features of the high tech economy and why current analytical tools used by antitrust enforcers aren't up to the task of assessing innovation concerns He considers from the perspective of innovation competition Kenneth Arrow's replacement effect and the Schumpeterian theory of market power and appropriation discusses the effect of mergers on innovation and future price competition and reviews the empirical literature on competition mergers and innovation He describes examples of merger enforcement by US and European antitrust agencies examines cases brought against Microsoft and Google and discusses the risks and benefits of interoperability standards Finally he offers recommendations for competition policy The open access edition of this book was made possible by generous funding from Arcadia a charitable fund of Lisbet Rausing and Peter Baldwin Internal
