The Palgrave Handbook of Environmental Restorative Justice Brunilda Pali,Miranda

Forsyth, Felicity Tepper, 2022-09-19 This handbook explores the dynamic new field of Environmental Restorative Justice. Authors from diverse disciplines discuss how principles and practices of restorative justice can be used to address the threats and harms facing the environment today. The book covers a wide variety of subjects from theoretical discussions about how to incorporate the voice of future generations, nature and more than human animals and plants in processes of justice and repair, through to detailed descriptions of actual practices of Environmental Restorative Justice. The case studies explored in the volume are situated in a wide range of countries and in the context of varied forms of environmental harm from small local pollution incidents to endemic ongoing issues such as wildlife poaching to cataclysmic environmental catastrophes resulting in cascades of harm to entire ecosystems. Throughout it reveals how the relational and caring character of a restorative ethos can be conducive to finding solutions to problems through sharing stories, listening, healing and holding people and organisations accountable for prevention and repairing of harm. It speaks to scholars in Criminology, Sociology, Law and Environmental Justice and to practitioners, policy makers, think tanks and activists interested in the environment.

Big Data, Crime and Social Control Aleš Završnik, 2017-09-20 From predictive policing to self surveillance to private security, the potential uses of big data in crime control pose serious legal and ethical challenges relating to privacy, discrimination and the presumption of innocence. The book is about the impacts of the use of big data analytics on social and crime control and on fundamental liberties. Drawing on research from Europe and the US, this book identifies the various ways in which law and ethics intersect with the application of big data in social and crime control, considers potential challenges to human rights and democracy and recommends regulatory solutions and best practice. This book focuses on changes in knowledge production and the manifold sites of contemporary surveillance ranging from self surveillance to corporate and state surveillance. It tackles the implications of big data and predictive algorithmic analytics for social justice, social equality and social power concepts at the very core of crime and social control. This book will be of interest to scholars and students of criminology, sociology, politics and socio legal studies.

Courts Cassia Spohn, Craig Hemmens, 2011-11-09 Authored text sections and carefully selected accompanying readings that illustrate the questions and controversies legal scholars and court researchers are investigating in the 21st century. Edited readings introduce students to classic studies of the criminal court system and to cutting edge research on decision making by court actors. An introduction to each reading gives students an overview of the purpose, main points and conclusion of each article and evaluates their policy implications. How to Read a Research Article, tied to the first reading in the book, guides students in understanding and learning from the research articles. Mini chapters precede the selection of readings and offer clear and concise explanations of key terms and concepts in each section, coupled with boxes with special interest topics and review materials that enhance student comprehension.
