Sentencing in International Criminal Law Silvia D'Ascoli, 2011-04-01 This book deals with sentencing in international criminal law focusing on the approach of the UN ad hoc Tribunals for the former Yugoslavia ICTY and Rwanda ICTR In contrast to sentencing in domestic jurisdictions and in spite of its growing importance sentencing law is a part of international criminal law that is still under construction and is unregulated in many aspects International sentencing law and practice is not yet defined by exact norms and principles and as yet there is no body of international principles concerning the determination of sentence notwithstanding the huge volume of sentencing research and the extensive modern debate about sentencing principles Moreover international judges receive very little guidance in sentencing matters this contributes to inconsistencies and may increase the risk that similar cases will be sentenced in different ways One purpose of this book is to investigate and evaluate the process of international sentencing especially as interpreted by the ICTY and the ICTR and to suggest a more comprehensive and coherent system of guiding principles which will foster the development of a law of sentencing for international criminal justice The book discusses the law and jurisprudence of the ad hoc Tribunals and also presents an empirical analysis of influential factors and other data from ICTY and ICTR sentencing practice thus offering quantitative support for the doctrinal analysis This publication is one of the first to be entirely devoted to the process of sentencing in international criminal justice The book will thus be of great interest to practitioners academics and students of the subject

Crime and Punishment in Twentieth Century Ireland Seamus Breathnach, 2005 This book was written as part of a much wider criminological enterprise designed at creating a real and critical basis for criminological enquiry in Ireland Properly understood the Criminal Justice System CJS is every bit as important to society as the circular flow of money No government would dream of conducting its business without the advice of an economist or indeed providing an econometric model of the economy Yet when it comes to the CJS governments take the opposite view and legislate in the dark hardly reconnoitering for a moment to see what effect proposed legislation will have on the several institutions it invariably affects Maybe this was okay when those effects could not be calculated But such is no longer the case In 1967 a President's Commission on Law Enforcement and the Administration of Justice featured a model of criminal justice entitled The Challenge of Crime in a Free Society Incredibly misunderstood and widely neglected this model marked a breakthrough the first step as it were in coming to terms with the multiple agencies that go to make up what has come to be called the Criminal Justice System CJS In Volumes 2 and 3 of the present series Seamus Breathnach traces the initial steps necessary to complete the revolution begun by the President's Commission In doing this he reveals the systematized neglect of the CJS in the Republic of Ireland for years 1950-80 In eight lectures he delineates the Republic's inability to get its act together or to engage the terms or significance of the 67 landmark an inability that is anchored both in a deep religious resistance to the secular social sciences as well as an exaggerated estimation of the criminal lawyer as social commentator From this study it appears that the first step for criminologists is to see the CJS as a totality to see it as a social process clamoring to be rescued from the spokesmen of the discrete agencies that comprise it

Social Issues in America James Ciment, 2015-03-04 More than 150 key social issues confronting the United States today are covered in this eight volume set from abortion and adoption to capital punishment and corporate crime from obesity and organized crime to sweatshops and xenophobia Punishment Thom Brooks, 2021-03-30 Punishment is a topic of increasing importance for citizens and policymakers Why should we punish criminals Which theory of punishment is most compelling Is the death penalty ever justified These questions and many more are examined in this highly engaging and accessible guide Punishment is a critical introduction to the philosophy of punishment offering a new and refreshing approach that will benefit readers of all backgrounds and interests The first comprehensive critical guide to examine all leading contemporary theories of punishments this book explores among others retribution the communicative theory of punishment restorative justice and the unified theory of punishment Thom Brooks applies these theories to several case studies in detail including capital punishment juvenile offending and domestic violence Punishment highlights the problems and prospects of different approaches in order to argue for a more pluralistic and compelling perspective that is novel and ground breaking This second edition has extensive revisions and updates to all chapters including an all new chapter on the unified theory substantively redrafted and new chapters on cyber crimes and social media as well as corporate crimes Punishment is essential reading for undergraduate and graduate students in philosophy criminal justice criminology justice studies law political science and sociology The Timing of Guilty Pleas Kevin Cheng, 2023-01-05 While guilty pleas are the primary mode of criminal case dispositions across different legal jurisdictions this topic remains an understudied area

The assumption is that defendants are playing the system and that a sliding scale of sentence discounts is necessary to encourage early guilty pleas which offer utilitarian benefits of efficiency. These assumptions lack a solid empirical foundation. This book offers a comprehensive investigation of how the timing of guilty pleas affects various facets of the criminal process from the factors that affect this timing to the effects that the sliding scale of sentence discounts have on sentences and public opinions about them. It also draws comparisons between Western and Asian legal systems specifically those of England and Wales and Hong Kong. This book is addressed to scholars, legal practitioners, policymakers and those interested in criminal justice, socio-legal studies and empirical legal research. Punishment Christopher Harding, Richard W. Ireland, 2022-09-01

First published in 1989, Punishment examines the practice of punishment not simply as a typical sanction employed by the state but as a pervasive feature of social organisation in both past and contemporary societies. With depth and rigour, they consider penal practice in a variety of historical and cultural contexts such as the family, kinship and tribal groupings, small communities, educational institutions, the workplace and the commercial environment, criminal organisations and the wider international community as well as that of the state. In this way, they widen the scope of the debate about the use of punishment as an instrument of human organisation, presenting different perspectives on the phenomenon of punishment and questioning the boundaries between different disciplines: juridical, philosophical, sociological, psychological and historical, within which the subject has been considered in the past. This book will be of interest to students and teachers of history, sociology, criminology, law, philosophy and psychology.

The Crimes and Sentencing Kai Ambos, Alexander Heinze, Peter Rackow, Eric Armbricht, 2022. International criminal law and justice is a flourishing field which has led in recent years to new international criminal tribunals and new mechanisms for investigation and holding criminals to account. These developments have in turn led to an increasing volume and greater consolidation of case law and even more scholarly attention. The second edition of this volume of Kai Ambos' seminal treatise has been revised and rewritten in parts to provide coverage of recent developments in the Special Part of international criminal law, namely the specific crimes and sentencing. Amongst other updates, there are significant extensions of the discussion on sexual and gender-based crimes, the introduction of environmental crimes into international criminal law, further elaboration on the nexus requirement in war crimes and asymmetrical conflicts, e.g. ISIS, and reference to the newly introduced war crimes of the ICC Statute and of the peculiarities of cyber attacks and other emerging activities. The volume complements Volume I of the treatise on issues relevant to the foundations, general part of international criminal law and general principles of international criminal justice. Taken together with the other new editions of the three-volume series, this second edition provides an exhaustive guide to every aspect of international criminal law from fundamental principles to procedures and implementation. Kai Ambos' Treatise remains an indispensable reference work for academics and practitioners of international criminal law. Redeeming a Prison Society and recidivism to the privatization of the prison system and the disproportionate representation of particular racial ethnic social and economic groups all of which is within a larger social justice context Catholics and Protestants have largely failed to offer vital theological responses Amy Levad offers a Catholic perspective that directly addresses the concrete issues from a strongly interdisciplinary approach and utilizes the rich liturgical and sacramental resources of penance and Eucharist to offer a theological vision of reform

Amy LeVad, 2014. The United States criminal justice system is in a state of crisis from unprecedented rates of imprisonment.
