Madagascar, 1987 The Politics of Institutional Failure in Madagascar's Third Republic Richard R. Marcus, 2016-02-10 Madagascar's constitution of August 19 1992 brought hope to a population exhausted by economic failures associated with a failed experiment in scientific socialism and years of mismanagement The repetition of transparent elections and the promulgation of good governance in the years that followed appeared to serve as an indicator of institutional strengthening and by extension progress Unfortunately a broader institutional analysis points toward a series of shocks to the political system by way of legal but highly detrimental juridical and constitutional shifts to the system These shocks were meant to serve particularized political networks with long clientalistic roots and were made possible by the narrow vision of institutionalism that did not take careful stock of those networks or the leaders at the top of them Little effort was made to look beyond a legislature brought in by careful elections but producing legislation serving individuals the ways in which inchoate political parties distort institutional outcomes and the potential for institutionalization the weakness of civil society to offer opportunities for popular engagement or the use of donor funded decentralization programs to build ministries that served as powerful and rapid proxies for leadership centralization By the time the celebrated president Marc Ravalomanana was overthrown in March 2009 it became clear that there were few opportunities to seed political opposition and such limited space between individual leaders and primary institutions of public management that critical state functions immediately began to unravel In this book the author considers the institutions of the Third Republic how they formed and why they looked like models for democratic change before turning to consider how the institutions themselves have been manipulated in plain sight by leaders looking to champion their own networks He concludes that the rise of the Fourth Republic in 2010 did little to address these underlying concerns and argues that a new agenda is in order to consider not just the way in which institutions form but the way in which networks of power and leaders at the top of those networks grow and change malleable institutions in young democracies with few avenues of accountability Madagascar Daniel Austin, Hilary Bradt, 2017-08-17 A new thoroughly updated 12th edition of Bradt's Madagascar the leading and most comprehensive guide to this unique island nation written by Hilary Bradt who first visited in 1976 and has returned roughly 35 times and Daniel Austin who has visited 12 times and continues to travel there annually Bradt's Madagascar is by far the most thorough guide to the country in English and is written and updated by established experts whose unparalleled knowledge of Madagascar combines with contributions from over 50 experts in a book which has been the most authoritative guide to the country for three decades. It covers national parks and protected areas and includes itineraries to suit all interests and budgets plus details of around 1 000 hotels and restaurants. Madagascar is like nowhere else on earth. It is fascinating not only zoologically and botanically but culturally, linguistically, historically and geologically. This vast island is the fourth largest in the world and also the oldest. This is part of the reason why it has evolved into an incredible hotspot for biodiversity with a truly unique flora and fauna that is more than 80% endemic to the island and with new species being described virtually on a daily basis. Madagascar is also the only place where you can see wild lemurs. Almost a quarter of the world's 450 or so primates exist only here. With Bradt's Madagascar you can visit tropical rainforest and seek out its incredible flora and fauna, explore the otherworldly eroded limestone spires most famously at Tsingy de Bemaraha National Park, Madagascar's most striking landscape, discover the beach-fringed islands around Nosy Be with their fabulous scuba diving, snorkelling, kayaking, whale watching and fishing opportunities and make the most of a host of adventuring and sporting possibilities including surfing, windsurfing, kitesurfing, rock climbing, tree climbing, caving, river trips, mountain biking, distance running, quad biking, trekking and hiking. Also covered are the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Ambohimanga, the renowned Avenue des Baobabs, one of the country's most photographed scenes and information on the best birdwatching spots. Madagascar has almost 300 avian species with a high proportion of endemics including five whole endemic families.

The Rough Guide to Madagascar
Richard Trillo, 2015-07-01. The Rough Guide to Madagascar is the ultimate travel guide to this enthralling destination. Conservation and Environmental Management in Madagascar Ivan R. Scales, 2014-03-14. Madagascar is one of the most biologically diverse places on the planet the result of 160 million years of isolation from the African mainland More than 80% of its species are not found anywhere else on Earth However this highly diverse flora and fauna is threatened by habitat loss and fragmentation and the island has been classified as one of the world's highest conservation priorities Drawing on insights from geography anthropology sustainable development political science and ecology this book provides a comprehensive assessment of the status of conservation and environmental management in Madagascar It describes how conservation organisations have been experimenting with new forms of protected areas community based resource management ecotourism and payments for ecosystem services But the country must also deal with pressing human needs The problems of poverty development environmental justice natural resource use and biodiversity conservation are shown to be interlinked in complex ways Authors address key questions such as who are the winners and losers in attempts to conserve biodiversity And what are the implications of new forms of conservation for rural livelihoods and environmental justice

The Global Coffee Economy in Africa, Asia, and Latin America, 1500-1989 William Gervase Clarence-Smith, Steven Topik, 2003-06-16 Coffee beans grown in Brazil Colombia Vietnam or one of the other hundred producing lands on five continents remain a palpable and long standing manifestation of globalization For five hundred years coffee has been grown in tropical countries for consumption in temperate regions This 2003 volume brings together scholars from nine countries who study coffee markets and societies over the last five centuries in fourteen countries on four continents and across the Indian and Pacific Oceans with a special emphasis on the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The chapters analyse the creation and function of commodity labour and financial markets the role of race ethnicity gender and class in the formation of coffee societies the interaction between technology and ecology and the impact of colonial powers nationalist regimes and the forces of the world economy in the forging of economic development and political democracy

Madagascar Philip M. Allen, 2019-04-02 The world's fourth largest island with a unique biological and physical endowment Madagascar is home to an extraordinary insular civilization that has struggled for more than a century against external domination In this sensitive introduction to the Indian Ocean's great island Philip Allen shows how family affinities and community loyalties at the foundation of Madagascar's culture have influenced Malagasy nationalism and forged islandwide traditions These same principles have nonetheless engendered social cleavages and resistance to economic and political change In chapters on modern Madagascar Allen analyzes the inability of a series of regimes to maintain authority among a people deeply bound to rituals of communication with their spiritual environment He demonstrates how the first Malagasy Republic became stigmatized by its lingering identification with French colonialism and how the nationalist revolution in 1972 soon hardened into autocratic radicalism Allen explores the complex challenges facing Madagascar's resurgent democratic forces including a need to conserve the island's irreplaceable biodiversity and to facilitate authentic participation in public affairs without offending ancestral customs and local precedents Finally he discusses efforts to end Madagascar's economic and political dependence and to improve living conditions for its tragically impoverished population

The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World

Joel Krieger, 2001-08-02 The world has seen dramatic changes since the publication of the first edition of The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World in 1993 In the post Cold War world globalization now offers wealth and opportunities on a broader scale as well as greater international harmony but threatens to reinforce the advantage gap between wealthy and poor regions and intensify environmental degradation Conflict and squalor expressed in brutal brushfire wars epidemics and chronic underdevelopment vie with equally dramatic accounts of growth and democracy associated with a liberal political order and the global diffusion of trade investment and communications Drawing on the breadth of the first edition this updated edition reflects the changing world with a reassessment of many of the core themes of the Companion and new articles on the people concepts and events that have shaped the world since 1993 The second edition includes biographies of Kofi Annan Tony Blair Bill Clinton and Gerhard Schröder articles on events such as the Rwandan Genocide and the war in Kosovo and coverage of international trade developments such as NAFTA and the World Trade Organization Eighty seven of the 672 articles in the Second Edition are completely new most others are thoroughly revised This edition also features a substantial new set of articles a dozen essays on critical issues written by influential figures Recognizing the importance of including varying viewpoints the editors have commissioned these essays to provide an informed and often passionate debate on controversial topics Discussions include Lani Guinier and Glenn Loury on Affirmative Action Francis Fukuyama and Milton Fisk on the Limits of Liberal Democracy and Lloyd Axworthy and John Bolton on the United Nations The contributors discuss nearly every nation in the world including extensive information on institutions political parties leaders and the sources of political mobilization and conflict The volume also includes biographies of more than seventy five political leaders and thinkers who have shaped the contemporary political world Articles include detailed discussions of critical historical developments and events concepts international law and organizations The Oxford Companion to Politics of the World Second Edition is an accessible timely thought provoking and comprehensive reference that captures the complexity and vitality of contemporary world affairs

The Handbook of African Intelligence Cultures Ryan Shaffer, 2023-02-06

Bringing together a group of international scholars The Handbook of African Intelligence Cultures provides the first review of intelligence cultures in every African country It explores how intelligence cultures are influenced by a range of factors including past and present societal governmental and international dynamics In doing so the book examines the state's role civil society and foreign relations in shaping African countries intelligence norms activities and oversight It also explores the role intelligence services and cultures play in government and civil society Beyond the Lens of Conservation Eva Keller, 2015-02-01 The global agenda of Nature conservation has led to the creation of the Masoala National Park in Madagascar and to an exhibit in its support at a Swiss zoo the centerpiece of which is a mini rainforest replica Does such a cooperation also trigger a connection between ordinary people in these two far flung places The study investigates how the Malagasy farmers living at the edge of the park perceive the conservation enterprise and what people in Switzerland see when looking towards Madagascar through the lens of the zoo exhibit It crystallizes that the stories told in either place have almost nothing in common one focuses on power and history the other on morality and progress Thus instead of building a bridge Nature conservation widens the gap between people in the North and the South The Indian Ocean Rim Gwyn Campbell, 2013-11-19 The Indian Ocean Rim Association for Regional Cooperation was formally established in 1997 under the leadership of South Africa India and Australia The demise of Apartheid the fall of the Soviet empire and the rapid advance of globalization altered the geopolitics of the Indian Ocean region in the early 1990s and served as a catalyst in the creation of the IOR This book contextualizes the founding of the IOR by outlining the historical aspects of economic ties across the Indian Ocean and previous attempts to promote regional cooperation The contributors to this volume analyse the post colonial ideological legacy the political and economic constraints caused by Apartheid and communism the end of protectionism and the problem of globalization These major themes in the history of the IOR are applied to what the future holds for Southern Africa within this economic grouping and whether or not regional cooperation will manage to compete with globalization This volume will be of interest to scholars of development studies international relations Third World studies and regional development Almanac of African Peoples and Nations Mohamad Yakan, 2017-11-30 The peoples of Africa are neither ethnically culturally nor religiously homogeneous European colonial powers took little note of this reality in carving up the continent a fact reflected in the periodic outbreak of civil war since decolonialization Likewise Western European models of development whether in their liberal or Marxist manifestations have so far failed to meet African development needs The path to stability in Africa is through its people s character and goals Almanac of African Peoples and Nations provides an essential guide to the major ethnic groups of the African continent highlighting the major contributions and basic features of each The Almanac reviews Africa s language families and their respective national and geographic concentrations explaining ethnic classification based on linguistic difference and including language groups that are not indigenous to Africa The major African peoples are then listed by country with a statistical breakdown on their respective shares in the total population of each country and maps indicating their concentration The major section of the volume includes a comprehensive listing and descriptive profile of each ethnic national and tribal group detailing their history customs economic systems and political and social organizations The Almanac points out as well which groups support revisionist political aspirations and shows the internal and external pressures they are subject to Yakan notes that African societies are not highly integrated and must support multitudes of influential sub cultures with conflicting agendas and loyalties Arguing that tribalism reflects Africa s historical experience and cultural heritage he sees the resolution of the continent s problems in consociational democracy proportional representation federalism or some form of autonomous rule

political policy on the part of majorities and states not to give due regard to the legitimate interests of minorities while members of minorities see their identity as central to their social and economic situation. They are often excluded from political power and decision making in the development process without equal opportunities to secure a better quality of life. One further danger may lie in regarding ethnicities as fixed rather than as the potentially fluid phenomena that they often are. Situational ethnicity does occur and individuals and groups do modify their self identifications depending on circumstances. Please note that the terminology in the fields of minority rights and indigenous peoples rights has changed over time. MRG strives to reflect these changes as well as respect the right to self identification on the part of minorities and indigenous peoples. At the same time after over 50 years work we know that our archive is of considerable interest to activists and researchers. Therefore we make available as much of our back catalogue as possible while being aware that the language used may not reflect current thinking on these issues.

The African Charter on Human and Peoples' Rights Volume 2 Nat Rubner, 2023. Landmark study of the African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights Documents on one side the international community's inability to foist a human rights system upon Africa and on the other the process within the OAU now African Union that eventually brought it into being and determined its content. The African Charter on Human and Peoples Rights ACHPR which was proposed in 1979 adopted in 1981 and came into effect in 1986 was the first non Western declaration of human rights and the first official statement of an African human rights perspective. With Africa largely absent in 1948 when the Universal Declaration of Human Rights UDHR was adopted it stands in stark historical reproach to the Western conception of universal human rights as a pivotal document in the decolonisation of the continent. This book for the first time presents a comprehensive account of the development of the ACHPR which is key to a proper understanding of its fundamental nature. Through documenting its process of construction it becomes possible to understand how Africans themselves understood the process and the issues involved and how the ACHPR became a political text asserted by African leaders and not a continuum of a so called universal human rights tradition. The result is a radical repositioning of the underlying context of the ACHPR one of the most important documents in modern African history of how it came to be and how it should therefore be understood. Volume 2 describes the process through which the ACHPR came into being. Analysing the role of Western governments the UN and

NGOs it shows that contrary to the prevailing view of African human rights commentators their influence was limited and at times counter productive That in fact the formulation of the ACHPR was a profoundly political process that was primarily a product of an African desire to instigate its own human rights perspective as a counter to the human rights universalism advanced by the Western post war human rights tradition
