Rewriting The Middle Ages In The Twentieth Century:

Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century Jaume Aurell i Cardona, Julia Pavón, 2005 The second volume of the collection centred on National Traditions is focused on eighteen medievalists who have been significant in diverse countries in the development of both medievalism and national identity Medievalism has been closely united to national traditions since its beginning and this book contributes to our understanding of this phenomenon Romantic intellectuals attraction to the medieval period largely explains the influence of medievalism in the formation of contemporary national identities as from the 19th century medievalists have also functioned as intellectuals present in the public debate In the 20th century important scholars of the Middle Ages some of whom are studied in this volume had already become authentic national chroniclers consolidators of the identities of the countries to which they felt closely linked both intellectually and emotionally They actively participated in debates that exceeded strictly academic limits delving into a wide range of political and cultural issues

Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century Julia Pavón Benito, 2015 This is the third volume of the series Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century focused this time the medieval political thought This book offers an overview of the national and transnational traditions of the historiography and studies the main questions and the background of this discipline in the last century Essays for this new volume focus on the subjects life intellectual and academic training discuss major works and historiographical heritage and locate the medievalists who have contributed to the better understanding of medieval political thought through their work in medieval studies This interdisciplinary resource aims to include medievalists from different fields history art literature theology among others

Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century Julia Pavón Benito, 2015 Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century: Introduction : medievalism and medievalists in the 20th century Jaume Aurell i Cardona, Francisco Crosas López, Julia Pavón, 2005

Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century Jaume Aurell i Cardona, Francisco Crosas López, 2005 Rewriting the Middle Ages in the Twentieth Century offers analytical introductions to the biographical and academic trajectories as well as the scholarly contributions of the most important medievalists of the 20th century privileging the contexts in which their influential texts in modern medieval studies were articulated and their effect on subsequent approaches to the field The volume pays tribute to the medievalists historians philologists literary critics philosophers historians of art and science and theologians whose work effectively forged contemporary academics and acknowledges a debt of gratitude for the trail they blazed in the twentieth century An introductory essay provides a comprehensive examination of the development of historiographical perspectives on medieval studies as shaped by the subjects of the volume contextualizing the individual chapters and offering a critical reconsideration of the manifold ways in which medievalism has been inscribed The chapters in the book develop from interdisciplinary and transversal strategies which reflect the kind of originaive work enacted by both the subjects of the volume and the scholars who write about them The contributors include renowned international medievalists and historiographers as Martin Aurell Paul Freedman Natalie Fryde Alessandro Ghisalberti Massimo Mastrogregori Michael McVaugh Jean Calude Schmitt and Martin Thurner A concluding essay summarizes the place of the medievalists in relation to their professional identity to the time in which they worked and to the national spaces that marked their scholarly production Among the medievalists studied are the leading exponents of the influential French historical school of the Annales Marc Bloch Jacques Le Goff and Georges Duby representatives from the highest philosophical tradition including Raymond Klibansky Albert Zimmermann and Clemens Baeumker economic and trade historian Roberto Sabatino Lopez historians of political thought like Ernst Kantorowicz exponents from the classical school of legal and institutional history such as Francois Louis Ganshof and Frederic William Maitland pioneering cultural historian Charles Homer Haskins historians of theology and Christian philosophy Etienne Gilson and Marie Dominique Chenu members of the Spanish historical and philological school that include Ramon Menendez Pidal Rafael Lapesa and Claudio Sanchez de Albornoz and in Catalonia Ferran Soldevila and finally from lesser known but equally fascinating fields of medieval studies like the science historian Pierre Duhem and the music historian Ugo Sesini

Rethinking Historical Genres in the Twenty-First Century Jaume Aurell, 2018-03-08 This book deals with the way historical genres are theorized and practiced in the twenty first century In the context of the freedoms inspired by postmodernism and enabled by the development of innovative textual and graphic platforms new theories of history view genres as flexible living forms that inspire more creative and experimental representations of the past New ways of articulating history compete with the traditional model of historical prose Acknowledging the current diversity in theories and practices and assuming the historicity of historical genres this book engages the reality of historical genres today and explores new directions in historical practice by examining these new forms of representing the past Thus without denying the validity of traditional and conventional forms of history and arguing that these forms remain valid this book surveys the production of what might be considered new historical genres practiced today in which the idea of practical past is put in practice Preceded by the introduction and two theoretical articles on historical genres some of the new forms of history analysed in this book are historical re enactments gaming history social media graphic narratives and first person narratives of memoirs of trauma and film history This book was originally published as a special issue of Rethinking History
