Love and Eugenics in the Late Nineteenth Century Angelique Richardson, 2003 The idea of eugenics human selective breeding originated in Victorian Britain in response to the urban poor Darwin's evolutionary theory had laid the foundations for eugenics replacing paradise with primordial slime Man had not fallen from Grace but risen from the swamps And as architect of his own destiny he might rise still further Eugenics was developed by Darwin's cousin Francis Galton in the 1860s Embracing the idea of evolution eugenicists argued that through the judicious control of human reproduction and the numerical increase of the middle class Britain's supremacy in the world could be maintained Born and bred among the competitive Victorian middle class eugenics was a biologicistic discourse on class Aiming at racial improvement by altering the balance of class in society it was Galton argued practical Darwinism Eugenics found its most sustained expression in fiction and the periodical press and was central to late nineteenth century ideas on social progress forming part of the debate between hereditarians and environmentalists that peaked in the closing years of the century Even Gladstone had his vital statistics measured in Galton's eugenic laboratory Among the champions of eugenics were social purity feminists and New Women writers such as George Egerton Ellice Hopkins and Sarah Grand who argued that women were naturally biologically moral and that through rational reproduction middle class women could regenerate the British imperial race The New Woman has been the subject of numerous recent critical works However the oppressive ideas that coexisted with the emancipatory theories of some New Women ideas that were supremely class conscious remain largely unexamined as the focus remains on her more progressive aspects Love and Eugenics in the Late Nineteenth Century recontextualizes New Woman writers demonstrating that they were as concerned with the questions of poverty sickness and health as they were with the changing role of women the issue for which they are currently generally known and celebrated Focusing on fiction and the press and drawing on the papers and published work of Galton and other eugenicists Angelique Richardson reveals the cultural pervasiveness of eugenics and explores for the first time the intimate relations between early feminism and eugenics and making a radical contribution to nineteenth century studies

Victorian Animal Dreams

Deborah Denenholz Morse, Martin A. Danahay, 2017-05-15 The Victorian period witnessed the beginning of a debate on the status of animals that continues today This volume explicitly acknowledges the way twenty first century deliberations about animal rights and the fact of past and prospective animal extinction haunt the discussion of the Victorians obsession with animals Combining close attention to historical detail with a sophisticated analytical framework the contributors examine the various forms of human dominion over animals including imaginative possession of animals in the realms of fiction performance and the visual arts as well as physical control as manifest in hunting killing vivisection and zookeeping The diverse range of topics analyzed from a contemporary perspective makes the volume a significant contribution to Victorian studies The conclusion by Harriet Ritvo the pre eminent authority in the field of Victorian animal studies provides valuable insight into the burgeoning field of animal studies and points toward future studies of animals in the Victorian period

Imagining Soldiers and Fathers in the Mid-Victorian Era Susan Walton, 2017-11-30 Beginning with the premise that women s perceptions of manliness are crucial to its construction The author focuses on the life and writings of Charlotte Yonge as a prism for understanding the formulation of masculinities in the Victorian period Yonge was a prolific writer whose bestselling fiction and extensive journalism enjoyed a wide readership The author situates Yonge s work in the context of her family connections with the army showing that an interlocking of worldly and spiritual warfare was fundamental to Yonge s outlook For Yonge all good Christians are soldiers and Walton argues persuasively that the medievalised discourse of sanctified violence executed by upright moral men that is often connected with late nineteenth century Imperialism began earlier in the century and that Yonge s work was one major strand that gave it substance Of significance Yonge also endorsed missionary work which she viewed as an extension of a father s duties in the neighborhood and which was closely allied to a vigorous promotion of refashioned Tory paternalism The author s study is rich in historical context including Yonge s connections with the Tractarians the effects of industrialization and Britain s Imperial enterprises Informed by extensive archival scholarship Walton offers important insights into the contradictory messages about manhood current in the mid nineteenth century through the works of a major but undervalued Victorian author

Victorian Crime, Madness and Sensation Andrew Maunder, 2017-03-02 Beginning with Victoria s enthronement and an exploration of sensationalist accounts of attacks on the Queen and ending with the notorious case of a fin de si cle killer Victorian Crime Madness and

Sensation throws new light on nineteenth century attitudes toward crime and deviance The essays which draw on both canonical and liminal texts examine the Victorian fascination with criminal psychology and pathology engaging with real life cases alongside fictional accounts by writers as diverse as Ainsworth Stevenson and Stoker Among the topics are shifting definitions of criminality and the ways in which discourses surrounding crime changed during the nineteenth century the literal and social criminalization of particular sex acts and the gendering of degeneration and insanity As fascinated as they were with criminality the Victorians were equally concerned with solving crime and this collection also focuses on the forces of law enforcement and nineteenth century attempts to read the criminal body as revealed in Victorian crime fiction and reportage Contributors engage with the detective figure and his growing professionalization while examining the role of science and technology both at home and in the Empire in solving cases

Inventing Maternity Susan C. Greenfield, Carol Barash, 2021-10-21 Not until the eighteenth century was the image of the tender full time mother invented This image retains its power today Inventing Maternity demonstrates that despite its association with an increasingly standardized set of values motherhood remained contested terrain Drawing on feminist cultural and postcolonial theory Inventing Maternity surveys a wide range of sources medical texts political tracts religious doctrine poems novels slave narratives conduct books and cookbooks The first half of the volume covering the mid seventeenth to the late eighteenth centuries considers central debates about fetal development pregnancy breastfeeding and childbearing The second half covering the late eighteenth to the mid nineteenth centuries charts a historical shift to the regulation of reproduction as maternity is increasingly associated with infanticide population control poverty and colonial national and racial instability In her introduction Greenfield provides a historical overview of early modern interpretations of maternity She concludes with a consideration of their impact on current debates about reproductive rights and technologies child custody and the cycles of poverty

Victorian Artists and Their World 1844-1861 Katie J. T. Herrington, 2024 The Boyce Papers give readers a rare insight into the milieu of the artists of the mid Victorian period

Routledge Library Editions: Victorian Poetry Various Authors, 2021-02-25 This set reissues 4 books on Victorian poetry originally published between 1966 and 2003 The volumes focus predominantly on the works of Emily Dickinson Elizabeth Barrett and Robert Browning This set will be of particular interest to students of English literature

Dickens to Hardy 1837-1884 Julian Wolfreys, 2007-06-27 This authoritative survey examines how the Victorian middle classes perceived themselves through analyses of the literature of the period Asking how the middle classes distinguished themselves from their forbears Julian Wolfreys reads in detail major novels by Charles Dickens Elizabeth Gaskell Wilkie Collins George Eliot Thomas Hardy Wolfreys explores the novelists constructions of modernity national identity and their understanding of becoming historical in distinction from that of previous generations He offers illuminating close readings of texts and examines narratives set in a recent past in order to investigate the role of cultural memory in the making of identity Also featuring a helpful Chronology and an Annotated Bibliography to aid further study this stimulating guide encourages readers to reassess the work of key writers of the nineteenth century
