

A cheerful cartoon bear with light brown fur, large black eyes, and a small black nose is peeking over a white rectangular sign. The bear's paws are visible on the top edge of the sign. The background is a vibrant autumn scene with various leaves in shades of orange, red, yellow, and blue. There are also some small blue berries and a few small orange dots scattered around. The sky is a light blue with some white clouds.

Say what I Am Called Dieter Bitterli, 2009-01-01 Perhaps the most enigmatic cultural artifacts that survive from the Anglo Saxon period are the Old English riddle poems that were preserved in the tenth century Exeter Book manuscript

Clever challenging and notoriously obscure the riddles have fascinated readers for centuries and provided crucial insight into the period

In Say What I Am Called Dieter Bitterli takes a fresh look at the riddles by examining them in the context of earlier Anglo Latin riddles

Bitterli argues that there is a vigorous common tradition between Anglo Latin and Old English riddles and details how the contents of the Exeter Book emulate and reassess their Latin predecessors while also expanding their literary and formal conventions

The book also considers the ways in which convention and content relate to writing in a vernacular language

A rich and illuminating work that is as intriguing as the riddles themselves

Say What I Am Called is a rewarding study of some of the most interesting works from the Anglo Saxon period

An Anthropology of Puzzles Marcel Danesi, 2020-05-15 An Anthropology of Puzzles argues that the human brain is a puzzling organ which allows humans to literally solve their own problems of existence through puzzle format

Noting the presence of puzzles everywhere in everyday life Marcel Danesi looks at puzzles in society since the dawn of history showing how their presence has guided large sections of human history from discoveries in mathematics to disquisitions in philosophy

Danesi examines the cognitive processes that are involved in puzzle making and solving and connects them to the actual physical manifestations of classic puzzles

Building on a concept of puzzles as based on Jungian archetypes such as the river crossing image the path metaphor and the journey Danesi suggests this could be one way to understand the public fascination with puzzles

As well as drawing on underlying mental archetypes the act of solving puzzles also provides an outlet to move beyond biological evolution and Danesi shows that puzzles could be the product of the same basic neural mechanism that produces language and culture

Finally Danesi explores how understanding puzzles can be a new way of understanding our human culture
