Mentoring Poems 4 Mary Anneeta Mann,2010 This Anthology of Poetry is for educational use It covers the period from Shakespeare s age to the present In these four centuries civilization has undergone a sea change in its shift to accelerated knowledge and technological capability Poets are struggling to express it There was great redeeming human awareness that grew out of the 20th century a recognition of the inalienable value of the single human life living freely and the need for reverence for it This is clearly illustrated in the difference between After Blenheim by Robert Southey born in 1774 and Anthem for Doomed Youth by Wilfred Owen born in 1893 Concerning war Why twas a very wicked thing said little Wilhelmine Nay Nay My little girl quoth he It was a famous victory compared with What passing bells for these who die as cattle Poets are historians of the heart the organ of love They adjust to the best of their ability to their surroundings mundane or otherwise to their environment inspiring or depressing to our advancing civilization at whatever level they perceive it. However, there is a recognition of the fragility of life emerging in the 21st century despite the technological revolution or perhaps because of it. Each human being is struggling to find and hold on to individual harmony with the Life Force, the love of the Universe amid a plethora of conflicting peripheral yet powerful passions, many still violating the hard-earned reverence for life. So the poems in this Anthology have been selected for their spiritual wisdom and harmony, their dramatic use of the cadences and beauty of the English Language as well as their pure simplicity and their ability to be part of the healing process, soothing the soul, mentoring the heart, and encouraging us to find meaning in our lives and to understand our role in the universe. For example, from William Davies: Nature's Friends Say what you like, all things love me. I pick no flowers that wins the bee.

Poems 1918-21, Including Three Portraits and Four Cantos Ezra Pound, 2019-11-21

Ezra Pound's Poems 1918-21, Including Three Portraits and Four Cantos is a compelling compilation that encapsulates the evolution of modernist poetry during a tumultuous period in history. Written in the wake of World War I, the volume exemplifies Pound's innovative use of language and form, showcasing his signature imagism alongside the monumental Cantos. This era of his work is marked by a departure from traditional poetic styles, embracing brevity, vivid imagery, and a rhythmic precision that echoes the fractured realities of post-war existence. The inclusion of Three Portraits demonstrates his dedication not only to language but also to the artistic and cultural figures that shaped his vision, reflecting a confluence of history, art, and personal narrative. Ezra Pound, a pivotal figure in modernist literature, was influenced by his diverse upbringing and extensive travels across Europe, where he encountered various art movements and literary traditions. His impassioned criticism of contemporary society and the war's devastation inevitably colored his work from this period. As a passionate advocate for cultural renewal, Pound sought to distill poetry down to its fundamental truths, using his mastery of language to forge connections between disparate ideas and cultural artifacts. This collection is a must-read for scholars, students, and enthusiasts of modernist literature alike. It offers deep insights into the mind of one of the 20th century's most influential poets, making it an essential exploration for those interested in understanding the complexities of post-war thought, the interplay between art and politics, and the enduring power of poetic expression.
