Growing up with Jazz W. Royal Stokes, 2005-03-15 A jazz writer for three decades W Royal Stokes has a special talent for capturing the initial spark that launches a musician's career In Growing Up With Jazz he has interviewed twenty four instrumentalists and singers who talk candidly about the early influences that started them on the road to jazz and where that road has taken them Stokes offers a kaleidoscopic look at the jazz scene featuring musicians from a dazzling array of backgrounds Ray Gelato recalls the life of a working class youth in London Patrizia Scascitelli recounts being a child prodigy in Rome who became the first woman of Italian jazz and Billy Taylor tells about his childhood in Washington DC where his grandfather was a Baptist minister and his father a dentist and everyone in the family seemed well trained in music Perhaps most exotic is Luluk Purwanto an Indonesian violinist who as a child listened to gamelan music in the morning and took violin lessons in the afternoon on an instrument so expensive she didn't dare quit For some the flame burned bright at an early age Jane Monheit sang before she could speak and was set on a musical career by age eight Lisa Sokolov played classical piano sang opera and choral music and was in a jazz band all by high school But Carol Sudhalter though born into a very musical family a Bix Beiderbecke family was a botany major at Smith and only became a serious musician after college quitting a government job to study the flute and saxophone in Italy From Art Blakey to Claire Daly to Don Byron here are the compelling stories of two dozen top musicians finding their way in the world of jazz female guitarists bass players keyboard players and drummers playing in bands Before this time women's presence in rock bands with a few notable exceptions had always been as vocalists This sudden influx of female musicians into the male domain of rock music was brought about partly by the enabling ethic of punk rock anybody can do it and partly by the impact of the Equal Opportunities Act But just as suddenly as the phenomenon arrived the interest in these musicians evaporated and other priorities became important to music audiences Helen Reddington investigates the social and commercial reasons for how these women became lost from the rock music record and rewrites this period in history in the context of other periods when female musicians have been visible in previously male environments Reddington draws on her own experience as bass player in a punk band thereby contributing a fresh perspective on the socio political context of the punk scene and its relationship with the media The book also features a wealth of original interview material with key protagonists including the late John Peel Geoff Travis The Raincoats and the Poison Girls
