Made in Taiwan Robert Hsin Chen, 1997 The Digital Flood James W. Cortada, 2012-09-27 The history of how computers spread to over 20 nations globally in less than six decades exploring economic political social and technological reasons and consequences It is based on extensive research into primary and secondary sources and concludes with a discussion of implications for key players in the globalized economy Dragon Multinational John A. Mathews, 2002-01-31 The conventional view of globalization sees it as a process driven by giant firms from the Triad regions of North America Europe and Japan shaping the world in their own image This book contests such a view describing the extraordinary success of a handful of multinationals from the Periphery in globalizing their operations extremely rapidly Focusing on Acer the Taiwanese IT company the Hong Leong hotel group of Singapore Ispat International in steel Cemex of Mexico in cement and Li and Fung from Hong Kong in contract manufacturing Mathews demonstrates that these firms have been able to utilize strategies of international linkage and leverage to accelerate their global coverage He contends that they are pioneers of a new kind of global firm indicators that the global business civilization being created in the 21st century is like to be pluralistic and diverse offering unprecedented opportunities for firms that know how to enmesh themselves in global networks Liquid Crystal Displays Robert H. Chen, 2011-08-04 An unprecedented look into the basic physics chemistry and technology behind the LCD Most notably used for computer screens televisions and mobile phones LCDs liquid crystal displays are a pervasive and increasingly indispensable part of our lives Providing both an historical and a business minded context this extensive resource describes the unique scientific and engineering techniques used to create these beautiful clever and eminently useful devices In this book the history of the science and technology behind the LCD is described in a prelude to the development of the device presenting a rational development theme and pinpointing innovations The book begins with Maxwell's theory of electromagnetism and the ultimately profound realization that light is an electromagnetic wave and an electromagnetic wave is light The power of mathematical physics thus was brought to bear upon the study of light and particularly the polarization of light by material bodies including liquid crystals After a brief historical description of polarization a physical interpretation provides substance to the mathematical concepts Subsequent chapters cover Thermodynamics for liquid crystals The Maier Saupe mean field phenomenological static continuum and dynamic continuum theories The transistor and integrated circuit Glass panels and modules The calculus of variations The active matrix Semiconductor fabrication The global LCD business Additionally the book illustrates how mathematics physics and chemistry are put to practical use in the LCDs we use every day By describing the science from an historical perspective and in practical terms in the context of a device very familiar to readers the book presents an engaging and unique view of the technology for everyone from science students to engineers product designers and indeed anyone curious about LCDs Series Editor Anthony C Lowe The Lambert Consultancy Braishfield UK The Society for Information Display SID is an international society which has the aim of encouraging the development of all aspects of the field of information display Complementary to the aims of the society the Wiley SID series is intended to explain the latest developments in information display technology at a professional level The broad scope of the series addresses all facets of information displays from technical aspects through systems and prototypes to standards and ergonomics
