Pfaltzgraff, Jr.,2016-11-11 Transformations of thought among British foreign policy makers since World War II have motivated this new study For the first time in its history during the postwar decade Britain began to abandon its world power outlook and to turn toward a European consensus substituting regional interests for its global perspective The author asks How does a people so attuned to worldwide interests and commitments reconcile itself to such drastically altered circumstances as those that followed World War II How does a people that has historically viewed with hostility the unification of continental Europe develop as a top foreign priority participation in the European integration movement The book focuses on the response of the British Government to changing international and domestic forces including elite groups at home Britain Faces Europe is the first book to examine both the development of British policy and the evolution of attitudes in the British private sector toward European integration between 1957 and 1967 Drawing on public documents and interviews the author traces the movement of British policy toward a more European out look Investigating publications of interest groups such as the National Farmers Union the Trades Union Congress the Confederation of British Industry and such Europe oriented groups as Federal Union and the United Kingdom Council for Europe the author traces the development of support for Common Market membership in the private sector Developing attitudes in representative British newspapers and journals and those of parliamentary parties are described Publications and statements of anti European organizations and public opinion polls are also examined Important elements of the study for all students and observers of world affairs are its examination of British expectations from European integration and its assessment of the British Common Market case from propositions about integration drawn from theoretically oriented literature The book is an innovation in approach in that other studies have focused almost exclusively on descriptions of official policy without major reference to either the private sector or theories of integration at the international level A Tour Through the Whole Island of Great Britain Daniel Defoe,Anthony J. examining whether the United States is in a position to complement military containment of China with restrictive economic measures

Liquidation of Empire R. Douglas, 2002-07-16 In 1945 Britain emerged as one of the Big Three victors of the Second World War Most people in Britain and elsewhere seem to have assumed that the British Empire would endure for a very long time to come Yet within twenty years British power and influence had been enormously reduced This book studies the causes and course of the process

The First World War Hew Strachan, 2003-02-06 This is the first truly definitive history of the First World War the war that has done most to shape the twentieth century The first generation of its historians had access to only a limited range of sources and their focus was primarily on military events More recent approaches have embraced cultural diplomatic economic and social history In Hew Strachan's authoritative and readable history these fresh perspectives are incorporated with the military and strategic narrative The result is an account that breaks the bounds of national preoccupations to become both global and comparative To Arms the first of three volumes in this magisterial study examines not only the causes of the war and its opening clashes on land and sea but also the ideas that underpinned it and the motivations of the people who supported it It provides full and pioneering accounts of the war's finances of the war in Africa and of the Central Powers bid to widen the war outside Europe
