Chilean Modern Architecture since 1950 Fernando Pérez Oyarzun,Rodrigo Pérez de Arce,Horacio

Torrent,2010-03-15 Chilean architecture along with that of S o Paolo and Mexico City sets a benchmark for the intersection of modernism with vernacular influences in Latin America Culture landscape and the geology of this earthquake prone region have all served as important filters for the practice of post 1950s design in Chile This volume introduces the modern architecture of Chile to readers in the United States Looking primarily at domestic architecture as a lens for studying the larger movement Fernando P rez Oyarzun considers the relationship between theory and practice in Chile As he shows in his chapter during the early 1950s the School of Valpara so offered the possibility of developing experimental projects accompanied by theoretical statements There visual artists considered poetry the starting point of modern architecture and contributed their radically modern views to the design process of the project Next Rodrigo P rez de Arce examines the material context of architecture in Chile the availability of materials and technologies the frequency of violent earthquakes and related seismic activity and the nation s craft based labor intensive building practices He applies these considerations to a series of case studies to demonstrate how they interact with cultural historical economic and even political influences In the book s final chapter Horacio Torrent reviews the interplay between the architectonic culture and modern shapes that came into sharp focus in the 1950s in Chile In another series of case studies he highlights the formation of a system of concepts thought processes instruments and values that have given Chilean architecture a certain singularity during the last fifty years

Valparaíso School Raúl Rispa,Rodrigo Pérez de Arce,Fernando Pérez Oyarzún,2003-09-02

The Valpara so School as it became known acquired an international reputation for its radical stance and its commitment to dialogue between architects and other disciplines Since 1970 the Valpara so School has focused much of its research and design activity on the Open City Ciudad Abierta project created by a group of architects artists poets and engineers with a vision of a city with no master plan no imposed ordering devices and no hierarchical networks of infrastructure Originally set up as a laboratory type environment this alternative community has since become the place of residence and work for many people

Valpara so School Open City Group provides insight into this radical experiment in urban development through a series of essays and photographs
