

Maggie's story

Maggie was oscillating between both the loss orientated (LO) process and the restoration orientated (RO) process within the dual process model.

She explains how it's worse now at 4 months as the shock has worn off, and she mentions 'everyone expects her to get on with it', she is getting on, she takes the kids to school, keeps the house going, she's sorted out probate and the pension. She is currently in the RO as she is attending to life changes, but she soon oscillates to the (LO) process. She goes on to mention she tries to keep herself busy of an evening, otherwise she will miss her husband, this is an intrusion of grief within the (LO) process.

She mentions she had to sign 'widow' on a form, and she felt hurt, this was another intrusion of grief, but she was also in the (RO) process as she was using her new identity.

She mentions she went to the cinema with a friend, had a lovely time and really laughed so was in the (RO) process, but she felt guilty for having a good time. So she had dipped back into the (LO) process.

She also mentions how they always used to go to a club with a group of friends, and how they have invited her, but she says how they all have partners and she would stick out like a sore thumb. She is in the (LO) process here as she is allowing intrusion of grief and avoiding restoration.

She said about how angry she feels at times, and how she hates her self at times. She ends this with 'I'm horrible aren't I?' its as if she seeks clarification from the person she is talking too. She does this on several occasions, 'of course you have to go on for the children, don't you?', 'stupid isn't it?'. 'but you cant, can you?'. This is not only confusion as Maggie suddenly has had her whole world turned upside down. She's suddenly now alone, new identity, new job roles etc, all part of the grieving process I believe. It makes her question herself, everything she does, her actions etc?

Dentith, 2016-05-06 Envisioning today's readers as poised between an impossible attempt to read texts as their original readers experienced them and an awareness of our own temporal moment Simon Dentith complicates traditional prejudices against hindsight to approach issues of interpretation and historicity in nineteenth century literature Suggesting that the characteristic aesthetic attitude encouraged by the backward look is one of irony rather than remorse or regret he examines works by Charles Dickens George Eliot Anthony Trollope William Morris and John Ruskin in terms of their participation in significant histories that extend to this day Liberalism class gender political representation and notions of progress utopianism and ecological concern as currently understood can be traced back to the nineteenth century Just as today's critics strive to respect the authenticity of nineteenth century writers and readers who responded to these ideas within their historical world so too do those nineteenth century imaginings persist to challenge the assumptions of the present It is therefore possible Dentith argues to conceive of the act of reading historical literature with an awareness of the historical context and of the difference between the past and the present while allowing that friction or difference to be part of how we think about a text and how it communicates His book summons us to consider how words travel to the reality of the reader's own time and how engagement with nineteenth century writers anticipation of the judgements of future generations reveal hindsight's capacity to transform our understanding of the past in the light of subsequent knowledge Second Language Creative Writers Yan (Niles) Zhao, 2015 This book elicits L2 creative writers' own perspectives of their life histories through the form of interviews and think aloud story writing sessions and investigates the writers' emerging writing processes It integrates socioculturalist L2 identity studies with the typically cognitivist process oriented L2 writing research
