The World at War Taylor Downing, 2012-11-19 The World at War is the most successful history series ever produced by British television TV producer and writer Taylor Downing explores the style ethos television context and impact of the programme in a study that includes interviews with the producer Jeremy Isaacs and original research gathered from archives Visually Speaking Jolyon P. Mitchell, 2001-01-01

What can preachers learn from the art of radio broadcasting Jolyon Mitchell considers radio broadcasting in Britain and America including C S Lewis The Radio Padre Ed Murrow Lionel Blue and Angela Tilby He explores how the speaker can create pictures with words and engage listeners in multi sensory ways This book offers theological insights and practical guidelines to enable preachers to listen and to communicate more creatively in today s media saturated world Making History Now and Then D. Cannadine, 2008-06-17 Collects twelve previously unpublished essays by one of Britain s most eminent historians David Cannadine including his inaugural and valedictory lectures at the Institute of Historical Research A unique volume discussing the study and nature of History itself and a range of key topics and periods in British and Imperial History The War Correspondent Greg McLaughlin, 2016-02-20 What is the role of the war reporter today Through interviews with prominent war and foreign correspondents such as John Pilger Robert Fisk Mary Dejevsky and Alex Thomson The War Correspondent delves into the most dangerous form of journalism From Crimea to Vietnam the Falklands to the Gulf and Afghanistan Iraq and the War on Terror the book examines the attractions and risks of war reporting the challenge of objectivity and impartiality in the war zone the danger that journalistic independence is compromised by military control censorship and public relations as well as the commercial and technological pressures of an intensely concentrated competitive news media environment As history and ideology return to the reporting of international conflict Greg McLaughlin asks what will that mean for a new generation of war correspondents attuned not to history or ideology but to the politics of the next conflict Popular imperialism and the military, 1850-1950 John M. MacKenzie, 2017-03-01 Colonial war played a vital part in transforming the reputation of the military and placing it on a standing equal to that of the navy The book is concerned with the interactive culture of colonial warfare with the representation of the military in popular media at home and how these images affected attitudes towards war itself and wider intellectual and institutional forces It sets out to relate the changing image of the military to these fundamental facts For the dominant people they were an atavistic form of war shorn of guilt by Social Darwinian and racial ideas and rendered less dangerous by the increasing technological gap between Europe and the world Attempts to justify and understand war were naturally important to dominant people for the extension of imperial power was seldom a peaceful process The entertainment value of war in the British imperial experience does seem to have taken new and more intensive forms from roughly the middle of the nineteenth century Themes such as the delusive seduction of martial music the sketch of the music hall song powerful mythic texts of popular imperialism and heroic myths of empire are discussed extensively The first important British war correspondent was William Howard Russell 1820 1907 of The Times in the Crimea The 1870s saw a dramatic change in the representation of the officer in British battle painting Up to that point it was the officer s courage tactical wisdom and social prestige that were put on display
