EDMOND. MALONE

Richard Farmer Master Of Emmanuel Colleg:

Richard Farmer, Master of Emmanuel College, Cambridge Arthur Sherbo, 1992 Johnson is reported by Thomas Percy to have been delighted with Farmer's Essay. He speaks of it with the most unreserved applause as a most excellent performance as a complete and finished piece that leaves nothing to be desired in point of Argument. For that the question is now forever decided. The question was how much Latin and Greek Shakspeare knew. Farmer was able to show that in many instances where others had claimed Shakspeare's knowledge of the classics in the original languages there were English translations of these works available to him. Farmer somewhat overstated his case but he resolved many questions. Farmer's life is of great interest in that his was prototypical of the life of the teacher scholar in the eighteenth century in one of the two great English universities. He occupied many of the positions of the academic and ecclesiastical worlds for he was also a Doctor of Divinity.

Master of Emmanuel College, Cambridge; Relative to the Edition of Shakspeare, Published in M DCC XC, and Some Late Criticisms on That Work. by Edmond Malone, Esq. the Second Edition EDMOND. MALONE, 2018-04-22 The 18th century was a wealth of knowledge, exploration and rapidly growing technology and expanding record-keeping made possible by advances in the printing press. In its determination to preserve the century of revolution, Gale initiated a revolution of its own: digitization of epic proportions to preserve these invaluable works in the largest archive of its kind. Now for the first time, these high-quality digital copies of original 18th-century manuscripts are available in print, making them highly accessible to libraries, undergraduate students, and independent scholars. Western literary study flows out of eighteenth-century works by Alexander Pope, Daniel Defoe, Henry Fielding, Frances Burney, Denis Diderot, Johann Gottfried Herder, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, and others.
