Lillard, Rebekka Christopoulou, 2015-05-26 Despite efforts to curb tobacco use global tobacco addiction remains as strong as ever Smoking rates are declining very slowly in advanced countries and they are increasing in the developing world Yet researchers still do not fully understand what drives smoking decisions Life Course Smoking Behavior presents smoking trajectories of different generations of women and men from ten of the world's most visible countries with nation specific representative samples spanning more than eighty years of recent history To inspire hypotheses on the determinants of smoking behavior the authors place these data in economic political social and cultural contexts which differ greatly both across countries at a particular time and over time in a given country Though significant research has been conducted on smoking statistics and tobacco control policies most descriptions of smoking behavior rely on cross sectional snapshot data

Levi,Anne Graffam Walker,2013-11-11 Legal realism is a powerful jurisprudential tradition which urges attention to social conditions and predicts their influence in the legal process The relatively recent social science in the law phenomenon in which social research is increasingly relied on to decide court cases is a direct result of realistic jurisprudence which accords much significance in law to empirical reports about social behavior The empirical research used by courts has not however commonly dealt with language as an influential variable This volume of essays coedited by Judith N Levi and Anne Graffam Walker will likely change that situation Language in the Judicial Process is a superb collection of original work which fits well into the realist tradition and by focusing on language as a key variable it establishes a new and provocative perspective on the legal process The perspective it offers and the data it presents make this volume a valuable source of information both for judges and lawyers who may be chiefly concerned with practice and for legal scholars and social scientists who do basic research about law Clinical Companion for Medical-Surgical Nursing Donna D.
