Reading The News:

Reading the News Robert Karl Manoff, Michael Schudson, 1986 We take our news for granted that it will inform us about the significant people and cite the authoritative ones reflect the world the way it is and tell us why something happens as it does Now six working journalists press critics and scholars at the leading edge of media criticism have been specially commissioned to make the familiar act of reading the news into a fresh and revealing event Taking the famous five Ws and an H Who What When Where Why and How the authors turn these questions back on journalism for the first time to show us exactly what to make of the press Leon V Sigal Who Sources Make the News Carlin Romano What Grisly Truth about Bare Facts Michael Schudson When Deadlines Datelines and History Where Cartography Community and the Cold War James W Carey Why And How The Dark Continent of American Journalism Robert Karl Manoff Writing the News By Telling the Story For everyone who reads the newspaper for the journalist and for the media critic alike these essays offer fresh provocative insights into a centerpiece of American culture the news

Reading News Articles in English: A Guide to Connectors, Verbs, Expressions, and Vocabulary for the ESL Student David Petersen, 2019-03-10 Reading news articles can be difficult Let this easy to use guide accelerate your progress Reading News Articles in English is the latest update to Reading English News on the Internet a solid resource for ESL teachers and students alike for over 10 years Outdated material has been replaced the TIPS sections on news sports business finance have been enhanced and bonus material on features of political news has been added Intermediate and advanced learners can boost their confidence by learning nearly 200 connectors phrasal verbs idiomatic verb phrases and everyday expressions and then testing themselves with mini quizzes and a final exam

Women, Men and News Paula Poindexter, Sharon Meraz, Amy Schmitz Weiss, 2010-12-22 This multi authored scholarly volume explores the divide between men and women in their consumption of news media looking at how the sexes read and use news historically and currently how they use technology to access their news and how today's news pertains to and is used by women The volume also addresses diversity issues among women's use of news considering racial ethnic international and feminist perspectives The volume is intended to help readers understand adult news use behavior a critical and timely issue considering the state of newspapers and television news in today's multi media news environment

Storytelling the News Bryan Betz, 2016-06-03 Storytelling the News consists of 14 readings based on human interest stories adapted from worldwide news sources and includes materials written with interest authenticity and immediacy in mind The universal appeal of these believe it or not stories ensures a pleasurable reading experience and encourages beginning level students to read with fluency and confidence This book is designed to help teachers create an atmosphere conducive to reading by making the stories read in class both comprehensible and engaging and to build student confidence and help them learn to read for pleasure The purpose of Storytelling the News is to create an enjoyable space for students to read and discuss the big and not so big current events happening throughout the world It also provides extensive and intensive activities to help students get the most of each and every story This book gives students the opportunity to explore high interest readings answer authentic and relevant questions articulate their thoughts and engage with the opinions of others This will allow students to practice reading English using a mix of lighter questions and some that are more challenging There are many reasons why I use true stories from the news with my students First the stories are of extremely high interest I always select stories with out of this world or too crazy to believe type of headlines These headlines really grab my attention and also activate their global knowledge which helps with keeping their interest and developing their prediction skills Additionally the articles are current and usually directly applicable to students lives Second most news stories are written using simple present past tenses and use simple grammar forms and sentence structures This is especially true of the headlines which usually provide a big picture overview of the entire story This is helpful as students can focus on the whole story instead of the details of each work chunk or sentence Third many articles can be found in English language newspapers printed in non English speaking countries I have found a number of great articles in my local papers printed with the specific purpose of studying English and include a translated copy of the text an English to English glossary comprehension questions vocabulary exercises etc In my experience true stories from the news work equally well with students of all ages abilities and levels of interest

Dunaway,Kathleen Searles,2023 Though people frequently use mobile technologies for news consumption evidence from several fields shows that smaller screens and slower connection speeds pose major limitations for meaningful reading In News and Democratic Citizens in the Mobile Era Johanna Dunaway and Kathleen Searles demonstrate the effects of mobile devices on news attention engagement and recall and identify a key cognitive mechanism underlying these effects cognitive effort They advance a theory that is both old and new the costs of information seeking curb participatory behaviors unless the benefits outweigh them For news consumers in the mobile era for example mobile devices increase the time economic and cognitive costs associated with information seeking Only for a small few do the benefits of attending to the news on mobile devices outweigh the costs Building on economic theories of news media choice and the ways audience demand shapes news craft and production Dunaway and Searles argue that attention engagement and recall suffer when people consume news on mobile devices They then investigate the implications of these effects for the news industry and for an informed democratic citizenry Drawing on both laboratory and real world studies Dunaway and Searles bring the psychophysiology of news consumption to bear on the question of what we could lose in an information environment characterized by a dramatic shift in reliance on mobile devices You Vote What You Read? News Coverage Before the Two Irish Referendums on the Lisbon Treaty Fabian Reichert, 2013-05-16 Eurobarometer shared recently that 41% of the EU citizens get their main information on European topics from daily newspapers This is also the case for those citizens who decided on the adaption of the Lisbon treaty in the two nationwide referendums in Ireland But as many media researchers showed news coverage is biased However it has to be biased for it is simply not possible to report the entire reality in one article One aspect of news bias is known under the term framing Framing leads readers to think in a certain direction for journalists underline certain aspects in a news story and usually cover a story only from one angle Therefore the journalist s angle can have a high influence on the reader s opinion The study follows these hints and examines the news coverage before the two Irish referendums on the Lisbon treaty took place Applying a content and framing analysis of the two most selling Irish newspapers namely the Irish Times and the Irish Independent it aims to make statements about the framing of the treaty in the news and gives evidence to the informative value of the title The Chemical News and Journal of Industrial Science ,1905 Engineering News ,1893 U.S. Army Recruiting News United States.
