Real Estate Valuation Theory:

Real Estate Valuation Theory Ko Wang, Marvin L. Wolverton, 2002-09-30 Is real property appraisal evolving or have all of the big ideas already been conceived This question has been circulating among the leaders of the Appraisal Institute during the past several annual meetings usually encountering little in the way of satisfying answers This is not too surprising because grand ideas and new knowledge do not typically evolve from off hand conversation They are the product of focused intellectual activity and hours of difficult work This unquenched thirst for new knowledge is the primary reason for assembling this collection of new manuscripts dealing with valuation theory which was financially underwritten by the Appraisal Institute Their generosity and willingness to partner with the American Real Estate Society made this collection of thoughtful and thought provoking essays possible They are the result of a global response to a worldwide call for papers and demonstrate that real estate valuation is indeed an international discipline The United States Australia and New Zealand Southeast Asia the Pacific Rim and Europe are all represented by this impressive collection of authors Together the eighteen essays that make up this volume demonstrate that there are a sufficient number of big ideas to challenge and improve the appraisal profession for years to come Real Estate Valuation Theory is organized around five categories of intellectual contribution to the whole appraiser decision making and valuation accuracy application of nontraditional appraisal techniques such as regression and the minimum variance grid method appraising contaminated property ad valorem tax assessment and new perspectives on traditional appraisal methods One common thread is that all of the papers are exceptionally well written and thought provoking Modern Real Estate Valuation Richard Updegraff Ratcliff, 1965

Real Estate Valuation Theory Manya M. Mooya, 2016-03-17 This monograph critically reviews and updates real estate valuation theory which is based on neoclassical economics in light of developments in heterodox economic theory Building on a comprehensive historical account of the evolution of value theory the book uses new institutional economics theory and critical realism as lenses through which problems in standard valuation theory and practice are expatiated and as the foundation for an alternative theory The new theory is employed to explain major problems in real estate valuation that are beyond the capability of the standard theory such as price bubbles in real estate markets anchoring bias client influence and valuation under uncertain market conditions Real Estate Appraisal Sarah Sayce, Judy Smith, Richard Cooper, Piers

Venmore-Rowland, 2009-02-11 The education of the real estate professional is changing and aligning itself more closely with the world of business This book takes a new approach to property appraisal by exploring the pricing mechanism in this changing context It develops the notion of the pricing mechanism in relation to property covers practical issues of comparison and the real problems in applying valuation theory explores calculations including social and environmental worth ignored in other texts As real estate professionals now advise both on strategic and operational aspects of built assets they must take into account practices of other investment markets and see investors as competitors to owner occupiers Both owner occupiers and investors have to assess accurately how their buildings perform but also be aware of wider sustainability issues and social and environmental responsibilities. Real Estate Appraisal from value to worth meets these new demands by examining the latest techniques of the marketplace developing an understanding of both market appraisal and worth and highlighting the emerging role of sustainability as a driver for decision making in real estate. Written by a group of highly experienced lecturers and professionals at the cutting edge of investment practice the book has an accessible style and authoritative coverage for both students and practitioners facing changes in established ways of working. Property Valuation Peter Wyatt, 2013-05-13. This new edition of the all in one textbook for the postgraduate study of valuation on real estate courses retains its focus on the valuation and appraisal of commercial and industrial property across investment, development and occupier markets. It is structured from the client perspective and covers single asset pricing, risk and return issues. The structure of the book has been substantially revised. Part A introduces the key microeconomic principles focussing on land as a resource, production functions, supply and demand and price determination. The locational aspect of real estate is also introduced. Macroeconomic considerations are categorised by the main market sectors and their function: the market for land, development for space occupation and for money investment. The economic context is set and the author then explains why property valuations are required and discusses the main determinants of value and how they might be identified. The mathematics required to financially quantify value determinants are also introduced. Part B of the book describes the methods of valuation. Part C applies these methods to the valuation of a range of property types for a wide variety of purposes and Part D covers investment and development appraisal. The author introduces valuation activities from a broad economic perspective, setting valuation in its business finance context and combining its academic and practical roots. Changes in this second edition include less daunting economics, expanded companion website with PowerPoint slides for lecturers, self-test Questions and Answers for students, see www.wiley.com/go/wyattpropertyvaluation, up to date case studies and sample valuations, reference to the newly published Red Book, the valuer's bible Property Valuation with its user friendly format, using tried and tested teaching and learning devices and a clear writing style. This remains the core text for students on real estate management and land economy degree courses as well as for fast track conversion courses for non-cognate graduates.
