Everyday Life in British Government R. A. W. Rhodes, 2011-04-21 As citizens why do we care about the everyday life of ministers and civil servants We care because the decisions of the great and the good affect all our lives for good or ill For all their personal political and policy failings and foibles they make a difference So we want to know what ministers and bureaucrats do why and how We are interested in their beliefs and practices In his fascinating piece of political anthropology Rod Rhodes uncovers exactly how the British political elite thinks and acts Drawing on unprecedented access to ministers and senior civil servants in three government departments he answers a simple question what do they do On the basis of extensive fieldwork supplemented by revealing interviews he tries to capture the essence of their everyday life He describes the ministers and permanent secretaries world through their own eyes and explores how their beliefs and practices serve to create meaning in politics policy making and public service delivery He goes on to analyze how such beliefs and practices are embedded in traditions in webs of protocols rituals and languages The story he has to tell is dramatized through in depth accounts of specific events to show ministers and civil servants in action He challenges the conventional constitutional institutional and managerial views of British governance Instead he describes a storytelling political administrative elite with beliefs and practices rooted in the Westminster model which uses protocols and rituals to domesticate rude surprises and cope with recurrent dilemmas AB Bookman's Weekly ,1996 The Columbia Dictionary of Quotations Robert Andrews,1993 Over 11 000 of these 18 000 quotations have never before appeared in a quotation book Chosen not for their familiarity but for their quality and their relevance in the 1990s these provocative quotations cover subjects from adolescence and adoption to yuppies and zoos The International Who's Who ,1990 New Society ,1987
