Rudolf Steiner und seine Architektur Peter Ferger, Michael Schuyt, Rudolf Steiner, 1980      Rudolf Steiner in Kunst und Architektur Walter Kugler, Simon Baur, 2007      Architecture Rudolf Steiner, 2003

Rudolf Steiner the often undervalued multifaceted genius of modern times contributed much to the regeneration of culture. In addition to his philosophical teachings he provided ideas for the development of many practical activities including education both general and special agriculture medicine economics architecture science religion and the arts. Today there are thousands of schools clinics farms and many other organizations based on his ideas. Steiner's original contribution to human knowledge was based on his ability to conduct spiritual research the investigation of metaphysical dimensions of existence. With his scientific and philosophical training he brought a new systematic discipline to the field allowing for conscious methods and comprehensive results. A natural seer from childhood he cultivated his spiritual vision to a high degree enabling him to speak with authority on previously veiled mysteries of life. Topics include the origins and nature of architecture the formative influence of architectural forms the history of architecture in the light of human spiritual evolution new architecture as a means of uniting with spiritual forces art and architecture as manifestations of spiritual realities metamorphosis in architecture aspects of a new form of architecture the first and second Goetheanum buildings the architecture of a community in Dornach the temple is the human being the restoration of the lost temple      Rudolf Steiner Rudolf Steiner, Mateo Kries, Alexander von Vegesack, 2010. Steiner is regarded as one of the most influential reformers of the twentieth century. He created extraordinary furniture designs and initiated a building style that seems to prefigure contemporary architecture. At the same time he advocated a holistic view of humanity which shows its influence in many areas of our lives today and he inspired artists such as Piet Mondrian Wassily Kandinsky and Joseph Beuys. This book is the first presentation of Steiner's work in its full breadth. Numerous scholarly essays discuss the origins context and influence of Steiner's work complemented by over 500 illustrations including both new and historical photographs architectural plans notebook sketches and artworks. This material is supplemented by comparisons with current design trends from works by Olafur Eliasson and design objects by Konstantin Grcic to the architecture of Herzog de Meuron. With texts by Philip Ursprung Paul Virilio Mateo Kries Walter Kugler Markus Bruderlin Wolfgang Pehnt Julia Althaus Wolfgang Zumdick and others      Architecture, Sculpture, and Painting of the First Goetheanum RUDOLF STEINER, 2017. The planning construction and execution of the functional work of art that was the First Goetheanum was an endeavor that occupied Rudolf Steiner for the better part of seven years. Every detail from the seemingly small such as the shape and feel of the door handles to the grand motifs of the paintings on the ceilings of the cupolas and the building's intended sculptural centerpiece was lovingly designed to meet and inspire the individual human beings who would some day encounter it not with didactic symbolism but with the transparent reality of the spiritual foundation of humanity and the world and the open possibility to both know this spiritual foundation and to work with it.

practically and artistically for the good of all The lectures contained in this volume which Steiner accompanied with just over 100 slides here reproduced were given to various audiences when the building was very near to completion before it was destroyed by fire Complemented by a Foreword by the esteemed architect Douglas Cardinal as well as an important and revelatory Introductory essay by David Adams The Form Function Relationship in Architecture and Nature Organic and Inorganic Functionalism this volume of The Collected Works of Rudolf Steiner is essential reading for anyone who wants to gain a deeper understanding of the artistic motivation of Rudolf Steiner as an artist and architect while also clearing up many of the misunderstandings that the building and its sculptural and painted components have inevitably given rise to both then and now Book jacket

Architecture as Peacework Rudolf Steiner, 2016-01-12 At the outbreak of World War I in August 1914 the construction of the singular architectural masterwork that would later be called the Goetheanum and later still the First Goetheanum was already well under way on a hill just above the village of Dornach in neutral Switzerland There a small international community had gathered over the previous year to take part in this utterly unique artistic building project under Rudolf Steiner's direction When the war began the mood and day to day life of Europe was instantly changed no less so amid this ad hoc spiritual and artistic community artillery could be heard in the distance many were called back to their respective countries for armed service and tensions between individuals of various nationalities who remained in Dornach were very soon in evidence This is the immediate background to these evening lectures given in the woodworking building next to the construction site in Dornach just two months after the start of the war Never announcing his intentions and using the metamorphosing forms of the hand sculpted wooden architraves resting on the columns inside the building itself as illustration Steiner embarked on a convincing and heartfelt appreciation even celebration of the uniquely beautiful qualities of the various European cultures then at war These lectures were given at a very specific time and place to a very specific audience with a very clear intention to cultivate in the midst of violence and aggression not just tolerance for other peoples and cultures but also love and sincere appreciation Such intentions are still needed today thus the continued relevance of these lectures The Russian writer Andrei Bely was present at these talks and later commented on them In light of his words we looked at each other with new eyes the oppressive mood was transformed other infections broke out later but the national fever was overcome once and for all The members of the belligerent nations lived in peace from then on Rudolf Steiner und die Anthroposophie Walter Kugler, 2010

The Goetheanum, 1982 Toward a New Theory of Architecture Rudolf Steiner, 2017-02 Rudolf Steiner gave thousands of lectures in his lifetime usually without notes and with very few exceptions with nothing more than chalk and a blackboard if he chose to accompany his speech with some kind of visual illustration A notable exception is the presentation that constitutes the main part of this book Given in June 1921 in Bern just eighteen months before its tragic destruction by fire this lecture and slide show consisting of a hundred slides is both the closest thing we have to a guided tour of the original Goetheanum by its architect and a profound statement of artistic purpose In addition to the lecture and slide show that comprise the main content of this volume the introduction by John Kettle serves to place Steiner's artistic contribution to architecture in the context of early twentieth century Expressionism and Organicism Frederick Amrine's thorough bibliographic essay highlights the most important secondary literature on Steiner's architecture and provides a sound entry to further exploration and study

Architektur als Welterfahrung Hans-Jürgen Schleicher, 1987 Der Architektur der Moderne und Postmoderne wird Verdrängung und Verfremdung unserer Umwelt einerseits und Kulissenarchitektur andererseits vorgeworfen Am Beispiel der Architektur der Waldorfschulen verdeutlicht der Autor daß es möglich ist in einem organischen Baustil zu gestalten der dem Eingebundensein des Menschen in seine Umwelt Rechnung trägt seinen Bedürfnissen gerecht wird und seine schöpferischen Entwicklung zur Freiheit und Sozialfähigkeit fördert

Architecture As a Total Work of Art Rudolf Steiner, 2018-11-12 Heinrich Ferstel said that architectural styles are not invented but born out of the spiritual life of an entire age Steiner agrees wholeheartedly with this statement but then asks Why does his age only recapitulate old styles Why is it impotent to create a new style The Goetheanum was meant to be a new impulse out of the clarity of anthroposophical striving Like the Mystery Dramas this new architectural impulse will contribute simultaneously to social renewal The Goetheanum was meant to be real art not abstraction It was not meant to capture the ideas of anthroposophy in symbolic form but rather to be another branch growing from the same root as anthroposophy The head and the body need to be sculpted very differently Color nuances should supersede line we need to create out of color itself Form should be the work of color In the Goetheanum two spaces represent human striving and the answer to that striving The infinite sphere arrives as a new architectural form Sculpting in wood is very different from sculpting in stone in the former we need to carve out concavities while in the latter we need to build up convexities Evolution does not yield ever greater complexity instead it runs from the simple to the complex and then back to simplicity again Everything in the building is organic The old dynamic mechanical principle of architecture gives way to Goethean metamorphosis
