Kellogg, Jillian Quint, 2006 A collection of winning essays from Random House's national contest offers a thought provoking and diverse anthology that tackles such topics as falling in love getting a job establishing a political identity negotiating a religious connection in a polarized society and taking a leadership role in the technology revolution Original 25 000 first printing African American Literature of the Twenty-First Century and the Black Arts Stephen Casmier, 2021-06-24

For nearly 50 years a trend in African American literary history quarantined the Black Arts era of the 1960s and 1970s separating it from the brilliantly creative and aesthetically experimental writing that took off in the 1980s According to that history the new literature discarded and distanced the anti aesthetic posture of the Black Arts moment which emphasized racial tension strident polemics and romantic solidarity with the Black underclass Yet according to the author the six novels that John Edgar Wideman wrote from 1987 to 2017 complicate this reductive characterization of the black arts They overflow with the criminal element accused rapists and murderers victims of unsanctioned lynching and sanctioned executions As they engage in aesthetic experimentation they express continuities with a spirit of restless invention and improvisation that derive from an ongoing engagement with African or Black Atlantic cosmology They thus enable reassessment of the black arts legacy entering the world on their own terms producing their own reality and working through the black arts notion of functional art They are the result of a magical Black Atlantic craft that brings writing beyond written representation

Doing and Allowing Harm Fiona Woollard, 2015-01-08 Doing harm seems much harder to justify than merely allowing harm If a boulder is rushing towards Bob you may refuse to save Bob's life by driving your car into the path of the boulder if doing so would cost you your own life You may not push the boulder towards Bob to save your own life This principle the Doctrine of Doing and Allowing requires defence Does the distinction between doing and allowing fall apart under scrutiny When lives are at stake how can it matter whether harm is done or allowed Drawing on detailed analysis of the distinction between doing and allowing Fiona Woollard argues that the Doctrine of Doing and Allowing is best understood as a principle that protects us from harmful imposition Such protection against imposition is necessary for morality to recognize anything as genuinely belonging to a person even that person's own body As morality must recognize each person's body as belonging to her the Doctrine of Doing and Allowing should be accepted Woollard defends a moderate account of our obligations to aid tackling arguments by Peter Singer and Peter Unger that we must give most of our money away and arguments from Robert Nozick that obligations to aid are incompatible with self ownership
