Bound in Twine Sterling D. Evans, 2013-01-14 Before the invention of the combine the binder was an essential harvesting implement that cut grain and bound the stalks in bundles tied with twine that could then be hand gathered into shocks for threshing Hundreds of thousands of farmers across the United States and Canada relied on binders and the twine required for the machine's operation Implement manufacturers discovered that the best binder twine was made from henequen and sisal spiny fibrous plants native to the Yucatán Peninsula of Mexico The double dependency that subsequently developed between Mexico and the Great Plains of the United States and Canada affected the agriculture ecology and economy of all three nations in ways that have historically been little understood These interlocking dependencies identified by author Sterling Evans as the henequen wheat complex initiated or furthered major ecological social and political changes in each of these agricultural regions Drawing on extensive archival work as well as the existing secondary literature Evans has woven an intricate story that will change our understanding of the complex transnational history of the North American continent

Cry Not for Spring E. Frank Mancl, 2014-08-20 This book does not portray any great feats of heroism as might be expected of a war book Rather it follows the three agonizing years of a group of terrified individuals who refused to knuckle under to the Germans and their horror-filled occupation of the Ukraine Though faced with almost insurmountable hardships this small band these guerillas fought back as best as they could Through the bitter winters the starvation the almost hopeless future they never wavered in their determination to remain free Their battle was not fought on a large scale nor were there any clear-cut victories There were no headlines to herald them when a bridge was blown up or when a train was dynamited from the tracks Their losses were suffered in silence as were their victories Bravery heroic deeds suffering defeat and victory were absorbed in silent gratefulness that at least they still possessed life a victory in itself for it was the only thing they were fighting for No lofty ideals or romantic causes just life Fur News and Outdoor World ,1914
