Rural And Farming Systems Analysis European Perspectives:

Rural and Farming Systems Analysis John Barry Dent, Murray J McGregor, 1994 The Farming Systems Research and Extension approach adopts a multidimensional perspective and has been widely used to bring about rural change in many developing countries The approach has traditionally been less used in Europe where research has tended to concentrate on increasing production However with the current emphasis within the European Union on restricting surpluses and on environmental and social protection circumstances are more appropriate to the farming systems approach Changes to rural infrastructures and agricultural production in Central and Eastern Europe may also favor the approach This book is the first to define the issues of farming systems research as they might be applied within a European context and extended to rural systems as a whole Consisting of 27 chapters it is divided into five parts covering conceptual background contextual setting alternative production systems understanding farm households and systems methodologies Contributions are included from the UK Ireland France Germany Spain Portugal Denmark Netherlands Finland Estonia and Greece The book is aimed at a wide range of readers in agricultural economics and rural studies

Farming Systems Research into the 21st Century: The New Dynamic Ika Darnhofer, David Gibbon, Benoît Dedieu, 2012-05-30 Farming Systems Research has three core characteristics it builds on systems thinking it depends on the close collaboration between social and biophysical sciences and it relies on participation to build co learning processes Farming Systems Research posits that to contribute towards sustainable rural development both interdisciplinary collaborations and local actor engagement are needed Together they allow for changes in understanding and changes in practices This book gives an overview of the insights generated in 20 years of Farming Systems Research It retraces the emergence and development of Farming Systems Research in Europe summarises the state of the art for key areas and provides an outlook on new explorations especially those tackling the dynamic nature of farming systems and their interaction with the natural environment and the context of action

Economy society and environment comprise the three main dimensions of sustainable development but too often they are considered separately This book by comparison examines the interaction of the three dimensions in the context of rural systems embracing a wide range of topics including globalisation and reregulation in sustainable food production conservation and sustainability the development of sustainable rural communities and sustainable rural urban interaction An international team of geographers drawn from the International Geographical Union's Commission on The Sustainability of Rural Systems summarises the basis of unsustainable rural development in these topics the remedial policies being pursued and their own evaluations of the policies Rather than deal just with generalisations their analyses are illustrated by detailed case studies drawn from a variety of rural systems in both developed and developing countries Intensive Agriculture and Sustainability Glen C. Filson, 2005-07 As globalization restructures agriculture and rural communities the impacts of increasingly industrialized farming make interdisciplinary analyses of the linkages among the social environmental and economic aspects of farming ever more vital This collection analyzes the reasons for the public's scrutiny of intensive agriculture and the prospects for sustainable farming now that concerns are mounting about food quality manure runoff greenhouse gases extra label use of antibiotics pesticide use and rural conflict Intensive Agriculture and Sustainability outlines the advantages of Farming Systems Analysis for understanding the implications of modern intensive agriculture This book describes some of the major environmental and social problems connected with intensive farming outlines a framework for analyzing its sustainability discusses key linkages among the environmental economic and social indicators outlines modelling trade offs between profitability and environmental sustainability and then analyzes various farming systems using case studies The authors conclude that rural conflict and government regulation are likely to continue unless the public joins with farmers to help fund stewardship practices and stabilize farm incomes This book will appeal to field practitioners agricultural and environmental policy analysts geographers and those scholars and students who are tired of the pervasive production oriented disciplinary focus that typifies most agricultural research Cow Up a Tree LEARN Group, 2000 Western societies are calling for speedy change in agriculture and the agrifood industries to incorporate new quality criteria into the goods they produce To promote these changes what scientists must develop are not universally implementable technical solutions but self diagnosis methods to be used by agricultural producers and their advisors They also need to evolve new procedures for research intervention in collective organisations There is a need for new individual and collective learning and organisation processes based on transdisciplinarity and co learning among researchers development

Starr,Sushil K. Tsuji,G. Hoogenboom,P.K. Thornton,2013-03-14 The first premise of this book is that farmers need access to options for improving their situation In agricultural terms these options might be management alternatives or different crops to grow that can stabilize or increase household income that reduce soil degradation and dependence on off farm inputs or that exploit local market opportunities Farmers need a facilitating environment in which affordable credit is available if needed in which policies are conducive to judicious management of natural resources and in which costs and prices of production are stable Another key ingredient of this facilitating environment is information an understanding of which options are viable how these operate at the farm level and what their impact may be on the things that farmers perceive as being important The second premise is that systems analysis and simulation have an important role to play in fostering this understanding of options traditional field experimentation being time consuming and costly This book summarizes the activities of the International Benchmark Sites Network for Agrotechnology Transfer IBSNAT project an international initiative funded by the United States Agency for International Development USAID IBSNAT was an attempt to demonstrate the effectiveness of understanding options through systems analysis and simulation for the ultimate benefit of farm households in the tropics and subtropics The idea for the book was first suggested at one of the last IBSNAT group meetings held at the University of Hawaii in 1993

Agricultural Use of Groundwater Cesare Dosi, 2001-05-31 Groundwater is endangered and polluted in several ways Conservation and better management of this invisible resource should be a key ingredient of sustainable water policies This is especially true in areas such as many Mediterranean regions which are already exposed to scarcity problems and which are likely to experience increasing competition between freshwater uses and users Agriculture is an important user of groundwater not only in terms of abstractions but also in terms of generation and release of pollutants Agricultural policies traditionally directed towards other objectives are beginning to pay more attention to environmental considerations However more effective initiatives are required to reduce the pressure upon groundwater resources and to achieve a better integration between agricultural and environmental policies This book has been developed from three workshops held as part of the EU Concerted Action SAGA Sustainable Agricultural Use of Aquifers in Southern Europe Integration between Agricultural and Water Management Policies FAIR5 CT97 3673 The Concerted Action and the workshops brought together
