Rural Financial Markets In Developing Countries:

Rural Financial Markets in Developing Countries Von Pischke, J. D., Dale W. Adams, Gordon Donald, 1983 Until recently the use of agricultural credit as a developmental tool seemed clear and straightforward Most concerned people believed that increases in the volume of cheap credit were necessary to boost agricultural production and that the rural poor could be brought into the mainstream of development through supervised credit programs It seemed that certain ideal types of rural credit institutions offered the promise of meeting farmers credit needs and that experience in the industrialized countries with cooperatives and specialized agricultural finance institutions could be effectively transplanted to low income countries This collection of readings highlights facets of rural financial markets that have often been neglected in discussions of agricultural credit in developing countries It moves beyond a narrow concern with the simple provision of credit to a broad consideration of the performance of rural financial markets and of ways to improve the quality and range of financial services for low income farmers It reflects new thinking on the design administration evaluation and policy framework of rural finance and credit programs in developing countries Rural Financial Markets in Developing Countries J. D. von PISCHKE, 1983 Changing perceptions of rural financial markets Contributions of finance to development Credit and finance in farm households and rural firms Urban financial institutions in rural markets Local rural financial institutions Government policies toward rural finance Rural Financial Markets in Developing Countries Jonathan Conning, Christopher Udry, 2005

Rural finance in developing countries Jacob Yaron, 1992 Targeted credit without institution building in rural financial institutions is almost always a recipe for prolonged dependence on donor or state funds and bailouts Development of Rural Financial Markets to Sub-Saharan Africa Sabapathy Thillairajah, 1994 World Bank Environment Paper 6 Here is a holistic approach to analyzing the environmental impact of various power systems Unlike standard impact studies that begin at the project level this method calls for environmental assessments that start at the planning stage of a national framework for energy policymaking The framework would take into account the energy needs of Sri Lanka s total economy It also would make it easier to incorporate environmental goals into power sector decisionmaking at the critical investment stage Sri Lanka s development options for the power sector are reviewed in detail Topics include alternative ways to assess the economic value of a power plant s impact on biodiversity human health and air and water pollution The study also assesses which energy planning options work best and recommends ways in which the Ceylon Electricity Board can improve its environmental policies Rural Finance for Food Security for the Poor Manfred Zeller, Gertrud Schrieder, Joachim von Braun, Franz Heidhues, 1997-01-01 A broader role for rural finance for food security The saving and borrowing behavior of the food insecure poor Innovative rural finance for the poor a food security perspective Conclusions for research and policy Development Economics for Developing Economies Ephraim Matanda, Hlupeko Dube, Munyaradzi Mawere, Misheck Diza, 2024-11-17 This book offers a fresh perspective on development economics specifically tailored to the unique challenges and opportunities facing developing economies Drawing on the historical experiences of now developed nations it explores how emerging economies particularly in Africa can finance their development reduce reliance on external aid modernise infrastructure and alleviate poverty The book emphasizes the crucial interplay between development economics and finance advocating for a synergistic approach to achieve efficient and effective growth Recognising the increasingly multidisciplinary nature of modern research it champions a hybrid approach that merges economic and financial perspectives fostering a more comprehensive understanding of development challenges This book's unique contribution lies in its integrated presentation of development economics and finance within a single cohesive framework By bridging these two critical fields it provides valuable insights into contemporary research trends and their practical applications across diverse disciplines and global contexts More than just a textbook it serves as a catalyst for debate on multidisciplinary approaches to development equipping students and practitioners with the knowledge and tools to navigate the complexities of economic growth in the developing world

Financial Market Fragmentation and Reforms in Sub-Saharan Africa Ernest Aryeetey, 1997-01-01 FIAS Occasional Paper No 9 Many developing countries have made dramatic progress in promoting private sector participation in their infrastructure sectors especially with the help of foreign investors However this has not been the case in Southern and Eastern Africa which have been perceived as relatively unattractive locations for investment This paper describes the state of infrastructure in the region takes stock of actual and potential projects in the various sectors and analyzes the main impediments to private investment in the region's infrastructure services

The Microfinance Revolution Marguerite Robinson, 2001-06-01 Around the world a revolution is occurring in finance for low income people The microfinance revolution is delivering financial services to the economically active poor on a large scale through competing financially self sufficient institutions In a few countries this has already happened in others it is under way The emerging microfinance industry has profound implications for social and economic development For the first time in history capital is well on its way to being democratized The Microfinance Revolution in three volumes is aimed at a diverse readership economists bankers policymakers donors and social scientists microfinance practitioners and specialists in local finance and rural and urban development and members of the general public interested in development This first volume Sustainable Finance for the Poor focuses on the shift from government and donor subsidized credit systems to self sufficient microfinance institutions providing voluntary savings and credit services

Issues In Third World Development Kenneth C Nobe,2019-09-10 Eminent economists and development experts focus on a number of concerns that are currently the major preoccupation of development economists policymakers and practitioners The issues addressed in this collection center on strategies to eradicate poverty reduce inequality and deal effectively with problems of management and the utilization of land and water resources The contributors analyze the issues in the context of past experience the present international setting and possible alternative strategies for the future and consider as well theoretical and methodological concerns [A.I.D.
